

SOLDIERS OFF TO MINE RIOT

SENATE SCENTS
BRITISH TRICK IN COURT TREATYU. S. Signs It, but Battle Is Brewing.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Charges that the British government conceived the scheme to nullify the most important reservation in the world court will figure prominently in the forthcoming senate battle over ratification of the world court compromise with the league of nations accepted today by President Hoover.

The American charge at Bern, Switzerland, today signed the amended protocol, thus formally signifying United States adherence to the court. But that action, of course, is subject to ratification by the senate before it becomes binding, and indications are that this will not come without a bitter struggle.

Evidence to Be Adduced.

Evidence will be adduced to support the allegation that Great Britain promoted the nullification scheme to save the world court as the legal department of the league of nations. The fifth senate reservation would have seriously impaired the political value of the court to the league, for it forbade the court, without the consent of the United States, to render an advisory opinion "touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

Genesis of Formula.

The genesis of the so-called Root formula, modifying the powers of the United States under the fifth reservation, will be investigated by the senate foreign relations committee when hearings are held on the revised protocol of adherence submitted by the President.

Root Selected by League.

Incidentally, it transpired today that Mr. Root was not the appointee of President Coolidge to the international committee of jurists which drafted the amendments to the world court statute and the revised protocol for the adherence of the United States. The official reports of the league of nations disclose that the committee of jurists was appointed by the council of the league, and that Mr. Root was selected by the president and rapporteur of the council.

Before departing for Europe Mr. Root came to Washington and conferred with President Coolidge, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary William E. Borah (Rep., Idaho), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and others. In the course of these interviews Mr. Root frankly admitted he had reached no conclusion concerning the character of a proposed compromise pertaining to the fifth senate reservation.

Several Plans Suggested.

Several suggestions for a basis of compromise were made to Mr. Root by the statesmen with whom he conferred. One was that the league of nations should agree to confine requests for advisory opinions by the world court to questions affecting members of the league only. Such an arrangement would satisfy the purpose of the fifth senate reservation. If advisory opinions were confined to matters affecting league members only they would not affect the United States, which is not a member of the league.

Mr. Root is said to have indicated that he was favorably inclined toward this suggestion. Whether he advanced it when he reached Europe is not known, but nothing more was heard of it.

What Mr. Root did find at his first meeting with the jurists appointed to draft the amendments to the world court statute was that the British were prepared with a plan for the nullification of the vital part of the fifth senate reservation. Sir Cecil Hurst, British member of the

PICKETS OF NEW
ILLINOIS UNION
PERIL TOILERSArmed Crowds Seek to Stop Work.

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 9.—(Special.)

Four companies of the Illinois National Guard, a force of 600 troops, including infantry, cavalry and machine gun units, were moving on this town late tonight to suppress a mob which prevented operations at one mine today and threatened violence to workers at another.

The National Miners' union, a new organization wrought out of internal strife in the United Mine Workers of America, made its first serious bid for labor supremacy Saturday night by declaring a strike. Only a fraction of the 55,000 miners in the Illinois fields followed the order, according to officials of the United Mine Workers.

Gather at Mine Gates.

The outlaws spent the Sabbath rallying supporters, their efforts becoming apparent this morning.

When the whistles blew at 7 a. m. a mob of 400 belligerents, carrying firearms, clubs and butcher knives, gathered at the gate of mine 55, the largest in the vicinity and operated by the Peabody Coal company of Chicago.

Struggling to work singly or in groups of two or three, the miners were intimidated by the armed pickets and turned homeward amidst the din of women in the mob who thumped dish pans and yelled, "Join the strike; down with the Mine Workers!"

Mine officials smuggled 24 men into the colliery to man the pumps, but not one of the regular force of 200 miners dared report, according to Walter C. Argus, general superintendent of the Peabody properties.

Deputies Escort Workers.

After parading the streets all day, the mob gathered at 4 p. m. at the state of mine 9, in Langleville, just outside Taylorville, howling threats at the men quitting work. By order of Superintendent Argus the 200 men of mine 9 were held two hours inside the gate until Sheriff Dunbar arrived.

Howls greeted the sheriff's order to disperse. At 7 o'clock he had sworn in and armed 60 merchants and townsmen, who escorted the miners in a column through the mob.

Deputies mingling with the strikers who thronged the Langleville streets tonight, told the sheriff ugly threats, told the sheriff ugly threats, told the sheriff ugly threats.

Approximately 300 members of local union No. 3473, most of whom worked today, went to the headquarters of the National Miners' union tonight and joined in the strike, bringing the total number of strikers to approximately 1,000. The strikers planned to march to mines No. 7 and 8 of the Peabody company tomorrow morning.

Many Troops on Way.

Adjutant General Carlos E. Black ordered the 120th infantry at Springfield and the 104th cavalry at Decatur to join forces at the latter's army. The junction was effected about 8 p. m. and with Maj. C. J. MacMachen in command the troops were reported moving here from Decatur, 32 miles northeast.

Officials of the National Miners' union in their strike called demanded a six hour day, a five day week, a minimum weekly wage of $35; abolition of the checkoff system whereby the operators subtract union dues from the miners' wage and pay them direct to union headquarters; and equal rights for Negro miners. Officers of the United Mine Workers, who have a three year contract with the operators, claim the new group is headed by bolsheviks.

Five private detectives, armed with shotguns, patrolled the Lake Forest estate of James Norris last night. Also police guards were assigned to protect Mr. Norris and Sidney N. Strotz.

Mr. Norris is a wealthy broker with connections in New York and Chicago.

Sidney Strotz and his brother Harold,

are also brokers, the sons and heirs of the late C. N. Strotz.

These police precautions were taken after a large dynamite bomb had been discovered in the dining room of the Norris home last Sunday evening.

Fuse Is Extinguished.

The discovery of the bomb was made by Mr. Norris' butler, who was drawing the curtains of the dining room a few moments before Mr. Norris and his guests reached the table.

The fuse of the bomb was half burned but extinguished by a movement of the curtain in the wind.

The evidence of the plot was immediately reported to Lake county officers, as well as to the Chicago defective bureau. Detectives from these two points, as well as private detectives, began an investigation. It was the conclusion of the police that the dynamite had been laid behind the curtain in the dining room by some person who found a window easy to raise, just before dinner was announced. Had the bomb exploded it would in all probability have killed all in the dining room and wrecked the house.

Following the search for immediate evidence, the police sought more re-note causes. The business connecwent to Deloit to visit my family. Sunday night, I was around at various places until I ended up at the Tampa Gardens, a road house, about midnight. It was there the police found me."

Had Many Man Friends.
Several love affairs of the instructor were slowly unfolded as the investigation went on. One of her admirers was in New York, another in Florida, and another in Cuba.

The theory of robbery as a motive for the murder was discarded when jewelry and money were found in the apartment untouched. She had not been raped.

Glenn Wiseman of Tarpon Springs, Fla., who became engaged to the dead woman in Porto Rico, eight years ago, when she was teaching there, talked over the long distance telephone tonight with Prosecutor Knight. He denied a story that they had recently become reconciled and that he had given her a diamond engagement ring. Wiseman admitted seeing his former fiancée in Chicago in October, when they both attended the world series.

Letter from Wiseman.
A letter from Wiseman, mailed recently at Wilson, N. Y., expressed a desire that she write him daily. It read as follows:

"Cordelia Dear: I wish I could have been with you yesterday. I was anxious to see you again, but don't see how I can very soon. I love you, dear. I wish I could go one of your sweet letters every day. Am all set for your good loving and I want you to be the same as you always have been when I see you. With love and I-2-3 (apparently a cipher code). It was signed, 'Your pal, Glenn, I-2-3.'"

Another man reported engaged to the school teacher was Nicola Diaz, leather goods dealer, who left Rockford some time ago. He was said to have been seen in Havana, Cuba, recently.

Still a third man, William Scrivener of New York, who recently wrote to the woman and whose letter was found in her apartment, was mentioned.

That Dr. Leach had acted strangely early Saturday night was told by R. G. Lanto, a restaurant proprietor. He said the dentist had chased a young man out of his restaurant and "acted like a wild cat."

Sanity Questioned in 1927.
Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Dr. Floyd Leach was examined for insanity by two Los Angeles alienists, Dr. Aaron J. Rosenoff and Dr. A. Parkin on Dec. 7, 1927. He was pronounced sane. His wife's relatives had attempted to have him committed to Patton to take a cure for habitual drunkenness.

According to Dr. Leach's sister-in-law, Mrs. Phillip Zeiss of Burbank, Cal., who is caring for the invalid wife and two children of Dr. Leach, Leach had been addicted to drunkenness and "spells" for years. On one occasion fourteen years ago, according to Mrs. Zeiss, he choked his wife so severely that she became an invalid with creeping paralysis. She has been confined to a wheel chair for the last eight years. She received a separate maintenance decree on April 12 of this year, after suing for divorce on the grounds of habitual drunkenness and cruelty. The pair separated in September, 1927.

Tells of His Death Threats.
Mrs. Zeiss said today that she has lived in constant fear of Dr. Leach, and that the family had been in fear of the life of his wife, during all of her married life. Mrs. Zeiss said Dr. Leach sent threats to her at one time that he was going home to "kill the whole damned family" and when she rushed to the house he drew a gun on her.

Dr. Leach served as a major in the medical corps during the world war, was once an instructor in the X-ray department at Northwestern university dental school and at one time was vice president of the Dental Association of Southern California. Following his domestic troubles he suffered a nervous breakdown and sold his practice in Hollywood. After some months on the desert to improve his condition he left for Chicago, later settling in Rockford.

Dr. Leach and Alice Rochlitz were married at St. Joseph, Mich., in February, 1911, and separated in September, 1927.

FUGITIVE CAUGHT FOR DEPORTATION AFTER 11 YEARS

Eleven years after he escaped from federal authorities while being deported to Greece, Peter Facklans, 31 years old, 755 Jackson boulevard, was recaptured last night in Chicago. Facklans finished a sentence for white slavery in the Leavenworth penitentiary in 1918 and was being taken to Ellis Island when he jumped from the train in Kansas City, Kas.

He has worked as a waiter in Chicago since then. Last night as he entered the rooming house where he lived, two immigration officers who had traced him by his cauliflower ears were waiting to arrest him. Facklans continued his interrupted journey to Ellis Island last night, traveling on a Nickel Plate train with five other deportees. The others were Jack Kemp of Scotland and Theodore Vogelaar of Holland, who escaped from an immigration train two weeks ago; James Crothers of Ireland, Dusan Kovakovich of Serbia, and Nicholas Valides of Greece.

LEADERS PAINT ROSY PICTURE OF FARMS' FUTURE

Thompson and Legge Tell Bureau of Outlook.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Having "blasted out the stumps of selfish opposition" and removed the "barriers of misunderstanding," organized farmers are entering a new era, Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, told delegates from 43 states yesterday in an address filled with optimism for the farm's future.

"Specifically, we have been engaged for eleven years in adjusting agriculture to its proper place in the economic and social scheme of the United States," he said. "Forces are now in motion that will complete that task. I now believe that the way is clear for the farm bureau to go forward in the accomplishment of its real mission—the building of a permanent, successful American agriculture."

Recognition for Agriculture.
The time has come for facing the real problems of farmers, the veteran farmer-banker president from Quincy declared. He pointed to the recognition of agriculture's long fight for material federal aid, obtained with the passage of the marketing act that created the federal farm board. This act, he said, makes cooperative marketing the nationally approved system for distribution of farm products and establishes governmental machinery to make the declared policy effective.

"The farm bureau must now proceed energetically in carrying out its marketing program," Mr. Thompson said. "Less than one-third of the farmers of the nation are today sold on the benefits of the cooperative system. The other two-thirds must be shown. That task must be shouldered by general farm organizations, particularly the farm bureau."

Urges Tariff for Farms.
The tariff, Mr. Thompson stated, is closely associated with the question of surplus control. He advocated attention of farmers to the need of enactment by the 71st congress of such tariff rates as would place the products of agriculture on a protective equality with those of industry."

The farm credit situation is unsatisfactory and must be strengthened to meet existing requirements, he pointed out, adding that amendments should be made to the rural credit act. Other matters discussed by Mr. Thompson included more adequate rural education on a national basis, the development of farm to market roads, improvement of rural health conditions, better protection against fire losses, closer study of factors affecting taxation, means of reducing soil erosion, flood control, inland waterway development, and closer cooperation between existing farm organizations toward a single mouthpiece for agriculture.

Legge Tells Farm Plans.
Asking, "What's wrong with us farmers?" Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, answered the question by telling the Farm Bureau federation of plans of the board for establishing the means whereby farmers could become an important factor in the selling of their products, for a "more steady price and with a more even flow to market."

In a jocular vein, Mr. Legge said the farm board already had a surplus of plans and that there existed a surplus of farm leaders, but that the board was already noting a feeling of "renewed confidence" for agriculture.

Farmers need to get more of a "show window" attitude in their merchandising plans, he said. The fact that these men have been the greatest individualists the world has even seen has been mighty expensive, he declared, urging all farmers to begin "thinking together, working together, and getting together on a marketing program with a common end."

Even with the much discussion

SENATE DISCUSSES TARIFF; TAX BILL MAY COME UP FRIDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Discussion of the tariff bill went forward today in the senate after an attempt to give precedence to the house tax reduction resolution had been blocked. It is planned to call up the tax measure later in the week, probably on Friday.

Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, asked unanimous consent that the tariff bill be temporarily laid aside and that the tax resolution be taken up with an agreement for final action not later than 4 o'clock tomorrow. Senator Black (Dem., Ala.) objected on the ground that Muscle Shoals legislation was more important.

Senator Watson (Rep., Ind.), majority leader, held conferences later in the day with leaders of the different groups and indicated that a motion would be offered to take up the tax resolution if objections continued. The tariff discussion centered on the increase from 8 to 24 cents per pound for material federal aid, obtained with the passage of the marketing act that created the federal farm board. This act, he said, makes cooperative marketing the nationally approved system for distribution of farm products and establishes governmental machinery to make the declared policy effective.

Long Gown Popular.
A Kate Greenway model of pale blue batiste, with a skirt that was yards and yards around the bottom, and a "sweet girl graduate" sort of bodice, was one of the outstanding successes of the fashion promenade. It touched the floor at all points and was edged with a tiny tulle.

Contrasting with this demure creation was a beach costume comprising white plaid sailor trousers, long and loose, with a "tuck in" blouse of beige mesh net, with a saucy beret of the same material and color.

The mesh net, manufactured in pastel shades and having the appearance of a woolen material, was one of the novelties of the show, and was highly praised by Miss Susan Bates of New York, of the cotton institute, for its adaptability in either sports or street costumes. An olive green ensemble that employed this medium was striking in appearance and was much praised by the hundreds of farm people who attended the fashion show and the tea that followed.

Boost Use of Cotton.
Pastel shades were prominent in the display of costumes. Muslin pique, the mesh net, voile, batiste, dotted Swiss and several other textiles were used, each of which is calculated to increase the consumption of cotton and to bolster the stock market accordingly.

Mrs. Charles Sewall, home and community director of the federation, was hostess for the event.

MAN ATTACKED, BOMBED.
Jacob Kushner, 1233 South Koster avenue, was attacked and robbed of $10 by Negro at West Roosevelt road and Miller street last night.

COTTON ASSUMES STYLISH POSE AS BOON TO DIXIE

Moves to Ballroom at the Farm Exhibit.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Cotton has qualified for a place high in feminine favor during the coming months. The hitherto plebeian material has undergone a metamorphosis that has taken it out of the kitchen and into the ballroom, it was demonstrated yesterday in the style show presented by the American Farm Bureau Federation at the Sherman hotel. And, yard for yard, the ready-made cotton costume costs as much as the satin or chiffon ensemble.

Explanation of the soaring price tag was evident in the "tricky" fashioning of a black town suit, modeled with all the accessories for street wear that a wool suit would have required, and from a few feet away deceptive enough to pass for the heavier material. Then there was the feat of costume modeling represented in a black evening gown of net, with its trailing panels and its deep décolletage, as swarthy in appearance as a georgette or chiffon creation.

The senator persisted in using adjectives, "wonderful," "splendid," and so on," Norbeck retorted. "Will he tell us how many cents per bushel the board is going to raise the price of wheat?"

"Several cents a bushel, I would say," Nye answered. "There you go—more generalities," returned Norbeck. "If the senator keeps on putting out this kind of propaganda for the farm board we never will get the equalization fee."

Preceding his dispute with Norbeck, Nye had produced and read what he said was a copy of a letter broadcast to elevator men by H. L. Hankinson & Co., Minneapolis grain commission firm, warning them not to accept loans from the farm board for the reason that the board is going to drive out independent grain dealers and substitute government control of the markets.

Nye also called attention to the protests lodged against the board's policy by a delegation of northwest grain dealers who visited Washington last week.

Nye, Once Foe of Farm Board, Now Rushes to Its Defense

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep., N. D.), a radical and former foe of the Hoover farm board, switched his viewpoint and, in a speech in the senate today, defended the board against alleged efforts of the grain trade to upset its wheat loan policy. His remarks evoked a sharp reply from another radical, Senator Peter Norbeck (Rep., S. D.).

The clash between the two radicals occurred after Nye had assailed what he declared was an organized movement by Minneapolis and Chicago grain commission men to put the farm board out of business before their own is ruled by cooperative marketing. The board, he declared, is making a "splendid fight," and deserves the support of friends of the farmer.

"Originally," Nye asserted, "I was a doubter, but today, in face of developments, I feel assured of the honesty of purpose of Chairman Alexander Legge and the farm board. They are making a genuine effort in behalf of agriculture."

Norbeck Recalls Stand on Fee.
"Has the senator from North Dakota changed his mind?" demanded Senator Norbeck. "Has he abandoned the equalization fee?"

Nye replied that he still favors the principle of the equalization fee, but that he believes the farm board will do the farmers a "wonderful service" if it eliminates grain middle men altogether.

The senator persisted in using adjectives, "wonderful," "splendid," and so on," Norbeck retorted. "Will he tell us how many cents per bushel the board is going to raise the price of wheat?"

STRAWN INVITES CITIZENS' AID IN FINANCE CRISIS

Calls Fifty to Meeting on Thursday.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

There will probably be no more meetings suggested for the financial crisis of the local governments for several days.

It is reported that the three public officials on the financial "rescue" committee have in effect withdrawn because of pressing official duties. These are President Anton J. Cernak of the county board, Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the city council finance committee, and County Treasurer George F. Harding. This leaves but two members, Silas H. Strawn and Alfred S. Austrian. Neither desires to go to the city and the county from the financial morass belongs to every citizen as much as to them.

Meeting Called Thursday.

Accordingly, Mr. Strawn will invite 50 or 60 private citizens to gather Thursday at 4:30 p. m. in the Midway Hotel to discuss the local governmental situation and adopt a plan for consideration. From those present there will probably be selected an executive committee of nine and its functions indicated.

To this meeting will be presented the balance sheets of the city, county, school board, sanitary district, library board, park board and any other governmental agencies which want out of the morass. These will show an estimated total indebtedness of $350,000,000, and no definite date fixed for the beginning of tax collections next year.

The names of those invited to the meeting will probably be made public by Mr. Strawn tomorrow noon. No program for the meeting has yet been tentatively suggested, except that the summary of the balance sheets will be read to the citizens.

West Statements Verified.

It is presumed these will be verified either before or after the Thursday meeting, because the lack of an accurate picture of the whole situation is largely responsible for so-called public indifference. The character of the meeting will indicate how seriously the private citizens take the situation.

For immediate relief, County Treasurer Harding hopes to prevail upon any large property owners to pay a substantial part of their taxes on account, without waiting for official tax bills. These local taxes must be used to pay off tax anticipation warrants, which are the cause of the financial crisis. Mr. Harding hopes that the city and county will loan cash on 1930 warrants. This would give money on which to operate for a while. Chief Deputy Robert E. Nesley of the local U. S. Internal Revenue bureau said yesterday that "local taxes paid on account may be listed as taxes paid in federal income tax schedules, and will be accepted as such by that department."

Consider Personal Taxes.

The plan for tax payments on account has not yet been devised, but it is probable that a start will be made on a personal property, which has not come under the reassessment rule. Among those of the south town who will probably be asked to pay on account are the telephone company, which paid $1,356,114 for 1927; the Commonwealth Edison company, which paid $1,474,448; the gas company, which paid $749,456; the south side surface lines, which paid $554,121; and the north and west side lines, which paid $355,222.

Some of these have personal property in other townships, as the Commonwealth Edison also paid $340,390 on personal property in the west town. Switching back to south town, others who will likely be asked for tax payments on account are Marshall Field & Co., which paid $257,777 in 1927; the Illinois Steel company, which paid $99,425; First Trust and Savings bank, which paid $371,025; First National bank, which paid $596,554; Pullman company, which paid $362,750; the Crane company, which paid $322,974; Northern Trust company, $138,901; Harris Trust and Savings bank, $142,563; Central Trust company, $145,504; Continental Illinois Trust and Savings, $414,675; Continental Illinois National, $755,153; State bank, $169,751; and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, $355,052.

Others in West Town.

In the west town were found such personal property payers as the Surface Lines, for $251,931; the telephone company, for $484,317; the gas company, for $192,564; the Crane company, for $371,025; Butler Brothers, for $571,427; and Sears-Roebuck, for $243,000. In Cicero were found the Western Electric, for $438,000, and the National Malleable Castings company, for $32,048. Montgomery Ward & Co., in the north town, paid $998,000; Cyrus H. McCormick, $44,161; and Harold F. McCormick, $23,183. Out in Hyde Park, Julius Rosenwald paid in 1927, $97,000; the Pullman company, $299,104; and the Pullman Car Manufacturing corporation, $252,000; the Illinois Steel company, $124,645; the Ford Motor company, $43,506; the Youngstown sheet and tube company, $22,152. Outside of the city are many large payers of personal property taxes, as the American Can company in Maywood, which paid $36,504.

County Treasurer Harding showed yesterday the burden placed upon real estate by the present tax system. He made public the actual current tax collections for the last 10 years. The figures show the real estate in 1918 paid $48,780,310.12, as compared with $162,927,772.16 for 1927.

COURT WARNS ALDERMEN NOT TO CUT STAFF

Committee Gets Protests on Budget Making.

City council finance committee members listened yesterday to the woes of department heads who must reduce the personnel of their offices next year. Then the aldermen were told they might be indicted for obstructing justice if they reduce the pay rolls of the Municipal court. The heads of the various city departments were given the opportunity of presenting their objections to the proposed budget, which in effect is for the same amount as was expended in 1928—and they took advantage of the opportunity.

Chairman John S. Clark was patient but firm.

"We're dropping 52 bailiffs from your staff," he said to Chief Bailiff Bernard W. Snow, "and 48 clerks from your staff," he informed Clerk James A. Keenan, both of the Municipal court. Chief Justice Harry Olson was told the committee would discontinue the services of three assistants whose pay has been $4,000 a year.

Call Court Needs Mandatory.

"You can't do it," the three officials of the court responded, in effect, to the aldermen. "It is mandatory on your part to appropriate for whatever employees the courts need."

"You may be indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice if you attempt to block the court," Judge Olson warned. "Well, if we must go to jail I hope you can find a way to send the wealthy tax dodgers there with us," said Ald. Oscar P. Nelson. "They are the ones at fault here, not the aldermen. I know of one instance where a loop concern made a sworn statement to the securities department that its property was valued at $35,000,000 yet the Cutmore appraisal value for taxation purposes at but $11,000,000."

"Yes, I note that loop property valuations have been reduced $215,000,000, while country town property has been increased the same amount," Judge Olson declared. "The city must bear that burden."

Where Court Revenue Goes.

The aldermen then asked why the Municipal court was not self-sustaining. Judge Olson and Judge Joseph E. Schulman stated that it is, but that the fines collected through arrests by park police policemen go to the park districts and other sums go to the state and school boards, whereas the city of Chicago pays the entire cost of operating these courts and gets but 37 per cent of the revenue derived. The city loses a million dollars a year through this court, it was said, but the other public bodies are the gainers.

While nothing that was done by the committee was final, the proposed reduction of court employees was unchanged. The aldermanic view, as explained by Ald. Clark, is that if the

CALLS FIVE MILLION COST OF VOYAGES TO WAR GRAVES

Washington, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The cost of pilgrimages of widows and mothers to visit the graves of world war veterans in France was estimated at $5,857,000 in a communication sent to congress by Secretary Hurley.

The war secretary wrote that 11,400 mothers and widows were entitled to the trip, but that only 6,730 had indicated a desire to go. Of this number 5,223 of them expressed a wish to go during 1930 and the remainder in 1931.

Although strenuous efforts have been made to find all the mothers and widows, Hurley said replies to many letters had not been received while others had been returned.

court insists on keeping its present staff a mandamus will be necessary.

Mrs. Anna L. Smith, head of the department of public welfare, appeared with a delegation which included Jos. D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities, to protest against the abolishment of her entire department. The municipal lodging house is going to be needed more this year than ever before, they stated, because of the unemployment situation, which Ald. James B. Bowler said is worse than in 1907.

Maj. Paul Schioler, city bridge engineer, told of the danger of giving him but $400,000 instead of the $1,087,000 he asks to maintain and repair the 52 movable bridges. City Harbor-master Charles Agnew said his department could not function on the proposed allotment of funds.

DELAYED BURIAL IN POOR FAMILY IS INVESTIGATED

County authorities yesterday began an investigation to learn why the body of a 3-week-old Myrtle Volstead lay in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Volstead, 1853 Belmont avenue, for three days after her death, although the board of health had been notified of quarantine conditions. The child was found dead in its crib on Saturday, the day after the apartment had been quarantined, when Mrs. Esther Volstead, 37 years old, the baby's mother, had shown symptoms of diphtheria. North Robey street police said that the board of health was notified.

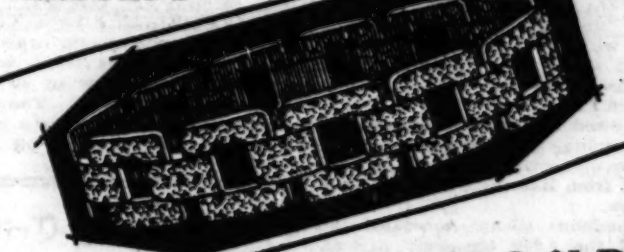

Because of the quarantine, the father, Elmer Volstead, 32, was unable to leave the apartment. He is a painter who has been out of work, earning only about $10 a week at odd jobs, and the family has been destitute.

Yesterday it was determined that Mrs. Volstead was not suffering from diphtheria and the quarantine was removed. The coroner's office started an investigation into the child's death and the body was removed by the county undertaker. Stage hands at the Belmont theater raised a fund for the immediate relief of Mr. and Mrs. Volstead and their four children, ranging in age from 2 to 8 years.

AMERICANS FLEE CHINESE CAPITAL; RUSH WARSHIPS

80,000 Rebels Gather for Grand Offensive.

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
NANKING, Dec. 9.—[By Courier to Shanghai].—While the national capital remains outwardly calm, the uncertainty of the military situation caused the evacuation today of the majority of foreign women and children residents. They left for Shanghai aboard the Standard Oil Company of New York steamer Melfo. Another larger party, including the wives and families of British and American residents, left aboard the Butterfield Wire steamer Shenking.

Walter A. Adams, American consul, Vice Consul Paul W. Mayer and an assistant, Miss Marguerite V. Dutton of Marquette, Mich., had worked for the last two days on evacuation preparations. They notified all American residents last night regarding the situation and of the preparations for evacuation of the women and children. They numbered seventy-nine, and are mostly members of the missionary community, but include the families of the staffs of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the British-American Tobacco company and other commercial institutions.

Advise Foreigners to Leave.
Consul Adams issued the following statement this morning:

"Because of the uncertainties of the military situation and the impossibility of forecasting developments in Nanking, I strongly advise all American women and children to leave Nanking for Shanghai by the first available means of transportation."

Most of the male members of the American and other foreign communities, however, are remaining here to watch developments. Their chief anxiety is the possibility of a period of interregnum in event the Nationalist government officials are forced to abdicate.

"No Immediate Danger."

Dr. C. T. Wang, minister of foreign affairs, said today that Nanking was in no immediate danger, that the city was defended by loyal troops, and that no large body of rebels were sufficiently near to cause alarm. It is reported, however, that 50,000 rebel troops are massing near Kaifeng for a drive on Hankow and that the rebel force north of Nanking numbers 30,000.

In view of the character of the forces now attacking the government, including communists, old reactionaries of the Anfu and Peking cliques, and so-called reorganizationalists, the government has no alternative but to fight its way out, otherwise the whole of China will be involved in a fresh Red menace, possibly allied with Moscow.

200 American in Peril.

There are about 200 American citizens, mostly missionaries, residing outside the Nanking territory who are now menaced by the war situation, mostly in inland towns of northern Kiangsu province.

It is understood that Consul Adams has asked the United States legation at Peking to dispatch a gunboat here to arrive tomorrow. The British and Japanese each have two gunboats here, anchored in the center of the stream, while the Nationalist government has four gunboats here considered loyal to President Chiang Kai-shek.

AMERICANS FLEE

American and British women and children, acting on orders of their governments, have evacuated Nanking, capital of China. They arrived safely in Shanghai on two boats. Rebel forces are concentrated just north of Nanking awaiting orders for an offensive on the capital, while 50,000 more rebels are massing between Kaifeng and Chongchow for a march on the tri-cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang. Loyal troops yesterday defeated the rebels surrounding Ichang.

Finance Minister T. V. Soong, also arrived by train.

Although martial law has been enforced here for some time, the local garrison authorities today decided to take added precautions and patrol the streets with soldiers with drawn guns. They especially caution foreigners against being abroad after 10 p. m., when all motor cars and other transport vehicles are required to undergo a search for arms and communist suspects. The Chinese authorities fear communist outbreaks and sabotage.

U. S. Warships on Way.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MANILA, P. I., Dec. 9.—The U. S. S. Pittsburgh, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, is leaving for China at midnight tonight with Admiral Charles B. McVay Jr., who insists the movement is merely "a matter of routine." The thirty-ninth division of destroyers left this morning for the same destination. Two destroyers have orders to proceed up the Yangtze river while the other four will remain at coastal stations.

50,000 Rebels Concentrate.

HANKOW, Hupeh, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Tang Seng-chi, Nationalist general, who declared himself against the government yesterday and seized Chongchow, in Honan province, today was reported concentrating 50,000 men between Kaifeng and Chongchow preparatory to marching upon Hankow. Wuchang and Hanyang, tri-cities on the Yangtze river.

This area is denuded of defenders, the troops having been ordered to Peking to defend Nanking, the capital of China, against the rebel army encamped a few miles northward. It is feared that Tang Seng-chi's troops will occupy the tri-cities without opposition unless the situation changes.

The government forces about Ichang, 300 miles upriver from here, were reported to have scored a victory city. Foreigners were evacuated.

FIGHT TO REACH SEA DERELICTS IN LULL IN GALE

108 Lives Lost Off Coast of Europe.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Relief forces redoubled efforts tonight in a lull in the gales which have subjected western Europe to perhaps the worst weather in a century, to reach waterlogged and crippled derelicts to which helpless men still cling on the high seas.

A checkup tonight, still incomplete, showed that 108 lives had been lost and 69 large ships had been stranded, sunk, or seriously damaged. The end of the storm was not yet in sight, with gales raging furiously from the mouth of the Elbe in the North sea to Cape Finisterre, the northwestern extremity of Spain.

Many Heroic Tales.

Many tales of heroism are related. Coast guard crews have risked their lives in many instances in almost hopeless efforts to reach foundering ships. Vessels that escaped damage turned out of their course to speed to the aid of others.

Rescue was reported today of that of the British liner Alania, which arrived at Plymouth from New York. It had stood by the crippled British steamer Tynebridge for nine hours. Finding it impossible to transfer the injured men from the Tynebridge, the ship's doctor of the Alania prescribed treatment by radio. Tugs now have gone to the assistance of the Tynebridge. There were minor injuries among the passengers and crew of the Alania.

Coasts Dotted with Wreckage.

The coasts of Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and Sussex tonight were strewn with wreckage and dotted with crippled ships trying to make port. The coast of northern France presented a similar spectacle.

The Swedish ship, Frieda, was reported sinking off Deal after collision with an unidentified craft. A lifeboat put out from Ramsgate to try to save the crew.

An ominous silence concealed the fate of the 8,000-ton west African steamer, Aha, which was reported in distress on Saturday with a smashed steering gear 10 miles off Brest, France.

The North Foreland radio station reported a steamer, Culmore, in distress. The British steamer, Volumnia, was abandoned today and 45 of her crew were saved by the steamer Manchester.

YOUNG KING BORIS PLANS TRIP; BULGARIA VISIONS ROMANCE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 9.—A new wife hunting expedition is said to be the real purpose in a trip abroad in December by King Boris III, young bachelor king of Bulgaria. His destination is kept a secret. Court circles are buzzing, but no name is mentioned as the possible object of the 30-year-old monarch's attentions.

King Boris refused the invitation to attend the wedding of Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Maria Jose of Belgium in Rome in January. His refusal ends whispers that he is again seeking to win Princess Giovanna, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. Instead of attending the Italian wedding personally, King Boris will send his brother, Prince Cyril.

The belief that the monarch will again seek the hand of Princess Ileana, 22-year-old daughter of Queen Marie of Roumania, is being revived, since Princess Ileana is said to be his first love, despite the reports of engagements to Princess Giovanna and the Grand Duchess Kyra, eldest daughter of the late Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the Russian throne.

That the waters might reach the height of the disastrous floods of last year, the river is now two miles wide at some places. Extensive damage already has been caused.

King Christian, the yachting king of Denmark, refused to permit the sale to delay his homeward trip with Queen Alexandra. They left tonight for Harwich to embark on the motor ship Parkenton for Esbjerg, Denmark.

ARMED ROBBER TAKES LIMOUSINE OF CARL D. KINSEY

Just after 10 p. m. Carl D. Kinsey, wife of the manager of the Chicago Musical College, was taken from her car in front of the college at 64 East Van Buren street at 7:45 o'clock last night. A highwayman emerged from the alley, poked his gun in the ribs of Russell Wilson, Mrs. Kinsey's chauffeur, entered the car and forced the chauffeur to drive west. Mrs. Kinsey had just entered the college building to get her husband. They were going to the opera.

The stickup man made the chauffeur drive him to 3400 North Western avenue and then forced him to get out. Then the robber drove the car away. It is still missing. It was a brown 7 passenger Stutz limousine, state license 478-511.

Union Officials Plead Not Guilty Destroying Property

Frank Sticking and Frank McBrein, secretary and business manager, respectively, of the Elgin Movie Operators union, who were indicted last week by a Lake county grand jury on charges of destroying property by means of an explosive, and conspiracy, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned in Waukegan before Circuit Judge Clare C. Edwards. Sticking and McBrein are alleged to have participated in the bombing of the Catlow theater in Barrington on Nov. 24.

CHICAGOAN DIES IN GUN BATTLE AFTER A HOLDUP

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Frank Morris of Chicago was killed here tonight by Champaign policemen, and another bandit giving the name of William Moore was captured after a running fight. The two men had held up an automobilist on the highway and taken his car. Decatur police notified the Champaign police and several squad cars were on the lookout for the bandits. They were sighted near the outskirts of town and after half a mile chase shots were exchanged, resulting in the death of one bandit.

Capt. Argo of the Champaign police telephoned to the Chicago detective bureau and asked that Mrs. Willard Roff, 3913 Cortland street, sister of Morris, be notified of his death.

HOOVER HAITIAN INQUIRY UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

But Supporters Are Sure It Will Pass.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Opposition to the appointment of a special commission to investigate conditions in Haiti cropped up in congressional debate today as reports from American officials disclosed an improved situation in the Caribbean republic.

Representative George Huddleston (Dem., Ala.), a frequent critic of American insular policies, led the attack on the request of President Hoover for the appointment of a fact finding commission. The Alabama representative suggested the side tracking of the type of investigation asked by the President in favor of a "publicity commission to let the world know what we have done, why we are there and what we propose to do."

The slattery with which administration supporters rushed to defend the President indicated that a resolution carrying out the Hoover recommendations will be passed quickly by the senate and house. Such a resolution was introduced in the house Saturday and a similar one was offered in the senate today.

Marine Tactics Criticized.

The attack on the administration plan for an investigation in Haiti was launched by Representative Huddleston when the house convened at noon today to take up consideration of the Interior Department supply bill. Granted thirty minutes to speak on any subject he chose, the Alabama representative plunged at once into a sharp criticism of the continued use of marine forces in Haiti.

Huddleston criticized American past policy in Haiti as imperialistic and asserted that congress had never sanctioned the use of marines in that republic.

Huddleston asserted that this country is "simply writing another chapter in the history of American rule in Haiti."

"For fourteen years Haitians have been at the mercy of American military forces," he continued. "It is not a problem of congress. Congress did not authorize the sending of forces to that country."

Has Rebukes for Hoover.

"The result is open insurrection, belching machine guns, and funerals. I am reliably informed that in previous uprisings more than 2,000 people have been killed. I do not hold the present executive wholly responsible for present conditions. He inherited much of it. Nevertheless he was an important member in the two former administrations. President Hoover went into office March 4 and now, eight months later, there is an open outbreak. Certainly he has not bettered the situation. That which he found March 4 has grown into what we have now.

"Having made a mess of this situation, the executive wants to unload it on us. I'd certainly agree to a publicity commission."

Representative Royal C. Johnson (Rep., R. D.) defended the administration policy in Haiti as soon as the Alabama representative concluded. Mr. Johnson said the policy toward Haiti had been inherited from the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

"I am surprised," he said, "that the gentleman would attack the Wilson policy. The policy of this administration needs no defense."

Paris Paper Invokes League.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) PARIS, Dec. 9.—Haiti, being a member of the league of nations, should let Geneva intervene, suggests the Paris-Soir, which says:

"It will be deplorable to the prestige of the league if its members do not make the necessary gesture to bring peace in Haiti. The signatories of the Kellogg pact are just as obligated here as in the Russian-Chinese squabble."

The Paris-Soir charges that the recent insurrection in Haiti was engi-

Awarded Child

Mrs. Ethel O'Toole, 4014 Arthington street, yesterday appeared before Superior Judge Sabath to ask that her husband, John Russell O'Toole, be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay $200 in alimony arrears. Mrs. O'Toole won a divorce on charges of cruelty four months ago and was awarded the custody of their child, Robert, 1 year old. O'Toole denied that he was the father of the child, testifying that his estranged wife had borrowed the child to get more alimony in her suit for divorce. Superior Judge Gemmill declared the child to be legally O'Toole's.

neered by the American authorities in order to silence demands for the withdrawal of troops, and claims that American influence in Haiti is disastrous in every respect. The French press is watching the situation very closely, but for the most part is refraining from the usual imperialist charges.

RADIO CORP'N WILSON'S IDEA, YOUNG ASSERTS

Quizzed on Use of Dead President's Name.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Ben B. Lindsey, militant exponent of companionate marriage and noted former Denver juvenile court judge, today was disbarred from the practice of law in Colorado by the state Supreme court for accepting money from a New York and Denver society matron for legal services while he was on the bench.

Lindsey immediately issued a statement asserting he was the victim of political persecution. The former juvenile judge was charged specifically by the bar association with accepting $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Edwood Stokes, divorced wife of W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire, for services in contesting Stokes' will, which cut off his two children by the second Mrs. Stokes, James and Helen Muriel, without bequest.

Helped Her Win $3,000,000.

Through Lindsey's interest in the Stokes case the mother was able to obtain for her two children approximately $3,000,000 from the estate of her former husband, in addition to $154,500 for her services as guardian of the children under an order issued by Lindsey as judge of the juvenile court. Her remuneration was in the proportion, he said, was whether it would be able to hold a "foremost place" in radio communication.

"Whether we look east or west," he said, "we find cables and radio united in all the great nations of the world as a protection to their national interests."

Blast Kills 5 Women in Spanish Gunpowder Plant

OVIEDO, Spain, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Five women employees of a powder factory were killed in an explosion today and two others injured.

Questioned by Dill, Young said the suggestion came to him through Admiral Bullard, who was sent by President Wilson from the Paris peace conference in 1919 for the purpose of trying to prevent sale by the General Electric company of important patent rights to the British Marconi company. The patents a few months later were turned over to the Radio corporation when it was organized.

Quizzed on Earlier Testimony. In his testimony Young advocated unification of telegraph, radio, and cable facilities under governmental regulation to meet competition from foreign interests, insisting that unless congress permitted such consolidations, now prohibited by law, this country would be placed "in a position where others may dictate their use here and we are powerless to protect ourselves."

The question before the Radio cor-form of stocks in a company organized by the estate. Using these as collateral, she borrowed the money to pay Lindsey, the record sets forth. The will left the money to W. E. D. Stokes Jr., a son by a former marriage. The case was settled out of court by agreement.

Contending that he had befriended Mrs. Stokes, that his services to her were dissociated from his work in the juvenile court and that he acted "merely as arbitrator and mediator," Lindsey denied in his argument before the Supreme court that his practices had been unethical. The $37,500 received from Mrs. Stokes, he asserted, was a "gift," as was $10,000 received from Samuel Untermyer of New York, an attorney for Mrs. Stokes.

Finds Character Lacking.

"Unless," recited the court's opinion, "one has the moral strength of character to stand immovable in his fidelity to duty against the allurements of money and to resist temptation to do those things that are prohibited by law and to the judge, then he no longer possesses that indispensable moral character which the good of society and the administration of justice demand of an attorney and counselor at law."

Bandit Gets $4,300 Jewels as Family Eats Luncheon

While Mrs. Margaret Ratz and her two children, Virginia, 10, and Jerome, 3 years old, were having a cold snack in the sunroom of their home at 7627 Essex avenue about 11 o'clock last night a burglar lifted the window in a front bedroom, removed $4,300 in jewelry from Mrs. Ratz's dressing table, and escaped. The theft was discovered ten minutes later by Virginia. Ratz, Chicago representative of a chemical company, was away at the time.

SENATE SCENTS BRITISH TRICK IN COURT PROTOCOL

council of the league of nations, had the plan in his keeping. What the British aimed at was the hamstringing of that part of the reservation forbidding the court to issue an advisory opinion without the consent of America in a case involving an American interest. An ingenious scheme to effect this purpose had been worked out.

It was not long before this device was put forth as the Root formula. How Mr. Root came to father it has never been disclosed. That is one of the matters the foreign relations committee intends to investigate. In some quarters it is believed that it simply was a case of the wine and flattery of the foreign diplomats having been too much for the venerable Mr. Root. In other quarters the conviction is held that Mr. Root, as an internationalist who never was in sympathy with the senate reservations, was a willing party to the British scheme to put a crimp in Reservation No. 6.

Next Job by Sir Cecil. It is asserted that the Root formula was conceived, drafted, and polished off by Sir Cecil Hurst. It was cunningly devised to render the vital part of the fifth reservation ineffective and to save the court as the legal agency of the league for use against the United States. It provides elaborate procedural machinery in the event the league should ask the court for an advisory opinion to which the United States objects. It provides for conversations between the league and the United States on its objection. "If, after the exchange of views," says the formula, "it shall appear that no agreement can be reached and the United States is not prepared to forego its objections, the exercise of the powers of withdrawal provided for in Article 1 hereof will follow naturally without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to cooperate generally for peace and good will."

Article 8 provides for withdrawal

New Diplomacy Born Amid Armageddon's Throes--Dawes

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The value of this "new diplomacy," evolved from the great war, was the theme of Ambassador Dawes' speech at a banquet given here tonight in his honor by the English Speaking Union. The marquis of Reading presided over the distinguished company of Anglo-American statesmen. The ambassador was accompanied by Mrs. Dawes.

The new diplomacy, said Mr. Dawes, involved a more direct personal contact by those of highest authority and a greater frankness in a mutual discussion of their respective domestic difficulties that stood in the way of just international agreements.

Old Ways Created Suspicion. "The old fashioned diplomacy was somewhat discredited," said the ambassador, "it was not because its negotiators were unfair or lacked a constructive purpose, but because they often either were unauthorized or unwilling to discuss the limitations of their possible action or acquaintance. When this is the case men cannot engage in a diplomatic conference without creating an atmosphere of distrust and suspicion and greatly endangering the chance of a successful outcome."

It was during the war therefore that the first and most distinctive feature of the new diplomacy was originated, Mr. Dawes said. The success of the London and Locarno conferences could not have been achieved without it, he added.

The coming naval conference would meet, said the ambassador, in a period of new diplomacy with recognition of the value of its methods.

Farley Carefully Minded.

"The conference will meet after perhaps as thorough a preliminary consideration of the best methods of approach to its problems as was ever experienced by a similar gathering," he declared.

Earlier, the marquis of Reading, proposing the health of Mr. Dawes, paid high tribute to the ambassador's peace work, declaring the latter's name was "written indelibly on the tablets of history."

"We and America," declared the marquis, "stood together for a single purpose in our desire for peace for the world without the faintest hostility or antagonism."

any interest is recognized by the league. "The present proposal that our government waive this reservation in consideration of the right to withdraw from the court is a very poor substitute."

"Prime Minister MacDonald, in a recent speech, expressed the opinion of the overwhelming majority of the American people when he said, in substance, it is perfectly obvious to anyone who visits the United States that they have no desire nor do they intend to become entangled in the political mess of Europe."

U. S. ENVOY SIGNS

(Copyright, 1929, by The New York Times.)

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—On behalf of the United States government Jay Pierpont Moffat, American chargé d'affaires at Bern, today signed all the protocols involved in American entry into the world court.

This leaves only the following steps to be accomplished before America takes a place in the court: First, the signature of the Root protocol by Abyssinia, Albania, and Lithuania, the only three of the 53 members of the court who have not already signed it; second, ratification by the United States of all three protocols and ratification of the Root protocol by all 53 members of the court.

May Hasten Program.

The United States' action at Geneva today is expected here to greatly facilitate the accomplishment of this program. Steps have already been taken to get Abyssinia and Lithuania to sign and similar steps will immediately be taken with Albania. Discreet efforts are also being made to get members of the court, none of whom have yet ratified the Root protocol—many because they wanted to be sure first that America would sign—to hasten the ratifications without awaiting the U. S. senate's action.

The three protocols Mr. Moffat signed in the absence of Minister Hugh Wilson are the original court statute of 1926, the Root protocol for meeting the senate's reservations to the above statute, and the protocol containing amendments to the original statute.

The United States is the fifty-fourth state to sign the original statute—there was hardly room left on it for Mr. Moffat's signature. It is the fifty-first to sign the Root protocol and the forty-ninth to sign the amendment protocol.

Signing Without Ceremony.

Today's signature was without ceremony. There were present Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league of nations; Juan Antonio Bissio, former foreign minister of Uruguay, the head of the secretariat's legal section and in whose office the signature took place; Sanchez Tetzidor, a Spaniard in charge of the treaty section of the secretariat, and Arthur Sweetser, the American deputy head of the secretariat's information section.

AFGHAN ENVOY LEAVES RUSSIAN PRISON IN RAGS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 9.—The Afghan trade commissioner to France, M. Chalungieff, accompanied by his son, arrived at Stetby today on route to Paris in a sorry plight.

After the flight of former King Amanullah, Russia, in spite of his diplomatic passport and soviet transit visa, arrested M. Chalungieff at Moscow and imprisoned him for four months, confiscating his money and clothing. The Polish authorities fed him and paid his railroad fare, as he was destitute and clad in rags.

POLITICIANS AND ADMIRALS CLASH ON SIZE OF NAVIES

British Government Men Fight for Big Cuts.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—As the date of the first naval conference in many years approaches, the struggle between the British admirals and the politicians as to what Great Britain's policy should be is becoming intensified. Labor politicians are anxious for a reduction in armaments, and believe that, with President Hoover's help, this can be achieved, although they fear what may amount to co-optation between the British and American admirals to keep up the standards of both fleets.

The British admirals are wedded to the doctrine of "minimum requirements." They are not very insistent about battleships, as the new school holds that they are no longer useful, but they have fixed a minimum of six cruisers and a lot of destroyers, which, they declare, are necessary for sea police work for the British empire.

Ready to Abolish Submarines.

Like America, they could not object to abolition of submarines, which they regard as a dangerous and costly craft, and not at all in line with the chivalrous traditions of sea warfare. This attitude makes it necessary for the American admirals to insist on an equal number of cruisers, destroyers, and anything else that any one else may have.

The politicians' argument is that Great Britain and America are really the only two sea powers that matter, and that, if no one else got anything, a few destroyers would be quite enough for the necessary police work. They would like a real reduction, not limitation of armaments.

Paper Publishes Figures.

The weekly journal, Economist, this week publishes some surprising figures regarding the cost of armaments of the various nations. This article shows that the United States is spending nearly twice as much as Great Britain, which is next largest. The United States, the paper says, is spending $890,000,000; Great Britain, $450,000,000; Russia, $488,000,000; France, $457,200,000; Italy, $266,000,000; Japan, $243,000,000; India, $213,000,000; and Germany, $118,000,000. At the same time, the Daily Telegraph's naval correspondent points out today that the personnel of the American navy is several thousands larger than that of the British navy, the American battleship having a complement of 1,400, while the equivalent British ship has only 1,100. The United States also, he says, maintains in commission many more submarines and destroyers. Also, for every British naval aircraft unit, he says, America has seven. In a few years, he states, America will have 1,900 efficient naval planes.

Must Save Money.

How serious all of this is for the British Labor politicians has been shown by the fact that the Labor government must find $95,000,000 extra next year for social services to which they already are committed, and there is little chance of any increased yield from the present rate of taxation. Instead Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, must find money to make up for a number of deficits left by Winston Churchill, the Tory chancellor.

The only way in sight to maintain taxation at the present level is to get rid of the burden of armaments, which is now $5 annually on every British family. It is certain, therefore, that unless the admirals get their way the British politicians will enter the conference eager to agree with the United States on drastic reduction of navies.

Poses as Agent of Church Society to Collect Money

The police yesterday were seeking a man who collected contributions from about fifty loop office workers by representing himself as a solicitor for the Dominican Fathers of River Forest, a religious society. The complaint was made by Miss Julia Deal, president of the Illinois Club of Catholic Women, who said the man is not connected with the society.

GOOD FELLOWS
ARE PROTECTED FROM BEGGARSSmall Children Selected for Yuletide Aid.

BY THOMAS WREN.

One major complaint generally has marked the close of each annual Good Fellow crusade conducted by the Chicago Tribune in behalf of the poor children.

Complaint is registered by Good Fellows that in some homes the children are above the Santa Claus age and the household not wholly devoid of financial resources. But during the Good Fellow crusade effort is exercised to procure names of families just bordering on destitution and in which the children's ages range from 1 year upward to 10 years.

Make Careful Check.

This year Miss Charlotte Ring of the Tribune's Good Fellow department is working on that feature. Miss Ring yesterday told of an old colored man who wanted to do his bit for the poor kids and reported at main Good Fellow headquarters in the Tribune's Advertising and Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street.

"I really can't afford this dollar," he said. "But I'm handing it over to help along a great cause. I read there was no discrimination and that youngsters of all creeds and color were supplied with those items which bring joy to kids at Christmas."

Need in All Sections.

Good Fellow, we have little friends in all sections of the city who are anxiously looking forward to that day when we make their gleeful dreams come true. And this simply by the expenditure of, say, $5 or $10, or maybe you'd wish to spend more for a basket of wholesome foodstuffs and a supply of candy and nuts and a few inexpensive toys. While the Tribune's Good Fellow department employs all precaution to safeguard their crusaders from professional beggars, the whole Good Fellow system is mapped out so Christmas cheer is distributed with a total elimination of official red tape.

West SideSUES TO BAR GARY
MAYOR ELECT OUT OF PUBLIC OFFICE

A suit seeking to prevent Mayor Elect R. O. Johnson of Gary from taking office Jan. 1 was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Crown Point by Emmet White, defeated Democratic candidate. White bases his contention on a 1921 statute which, he claims, bars any person convicted of a felony from holding a "high public office." Johnson served about a year in prison four years ago for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He was later pardoned by President Coolidge and his citizenship was restored. Harold Sandbach, member of the Gary board of public safety, yesterday tendered his resignation to Mayor Floyd E. Williams because, he said, the mayor asked him to support the reinstatement of several Gary policemen who were on trial at Hammond last week for a liquor conspiracy, the jury disagreeing as to their guilt.

"SOCIETY COP," KIN OF ELLER, GOES ON BEAT

Peter Harlib, self-styled "society policeman" and a nephew of City Collector Morris Eller, will celebrate his first anniversary in the police department today by donning a policeman's uniform for the first time and walking a beat in the Irving Park district. Because of Harlib's family and political connections, it is stated he has been assigned to the detective bureau since joining the force and since the opening of the opera season has been detailed to the Civic Opera building. Deputy Commissioner Steg announced last night, however, that he had received numerous complaints of Harlib's officiousness and was transferring him as a result of those complaints.

ELECTRIC SHOCK KILLS BOY.
Vandalia, Ill., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Vernon Ward, 12, of Hammond, near here, was in a critical condition in a Vandalia hospital today as a result of burns and shock received yesterday when he climbed a power and light pole and came in contact with high tension electric wires.

JUDGE DECREES
EARLY TRIAL FOR
"HIGH POCKETS"

James (High Pockets) O'Brien, charged by the state's attorney's office with being the head of the so-called slot machine syndicate, must be placed on trial soon it was ruled yesterday by Judge John P. McGorty in the Criminal court. The case of the prosecution against twenty-one other defendants, including Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson politician, and six police captains, collapsed recently. O'Brien is charged with conspiracy, bribery, and receiving stolen property. Assistant State Attorney Henry Ayers appeared before Judge McGorty and asked that O'Brien's bonds be raised. In view of O'Brien's absence while the main trial was in progress, the judge raised the bonds from $25,000 to $40,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

...this UNION of MUTUAL OBJECTIVES

IN the union of the State Bank of Chicago with the Foreman National Bank and the Foreman Trust and Savings Bank, more will be realized than simply the strength made possible by greater invested capital and enlarged resources.

Vital as these are—the ability of these great institutions to serve their patrons unitedly, is even more vital.

Counsel will be readily available through the combined experience and mutual interest of two groups of business leaders having but one objective, complete service to each individual patron.

This has always been the objective of both banks. Founded 50 years ago, the State Bank of Chicago has adhered to this fundamental—a sincere and generous attitude toward the client's affairs—untiring effort to merit his lifelong loyalty. Founded 67 years ago, The Foreman National Bank has faithfully preserved, in both policy and practice, this same ideal of its neighbor. Thus—a union of the two institutions is a perfectly natural result.

The fruits of that union will be apparent in every particular of painstaking service to the depositor. There will be a continuance of the principle that no problem of an individual is trivial. It will always be said of this institution—as it has been said of the two great banks—that its service is not measured by the amount of money involved, but by the human interests at stake.

In that spirit—in the assurance of that quality of personal care—this new united institution, with its invested capital of $38,000,000 and resources exceeding $220,000,000—will assure its friends an atmosphere where "banking" and "business" are humanized into friendly welcome of the individual... and sincere attention given to all his needs.

MILLER REFUSES TO MAKE DEFENSE IN DIPLOMA TRIAL

Final Arguments Today in Conspiracy Case.

CRIMINAL COURT.
James H. Miller, accused in robbery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Otto Kerner.
James Walsh and Louis Ferrante, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 30 years each in Penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.
Charles R. Miller, indecent liberties, sentenced to 1 year in the Reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

W. H. H. Miller, former head of the state department of registration and education, failed to make a defense yesterday to the charges of the state that he is guilty of a conspiracy to issue fraudulent medical and dental licenses. Attorneys Charles Dougherty and Samuel Hoffman in behalf of Miller, announced yesterday afternoon that the defense would produce no witnesses to rebut the testimony which the state has been placing before the jury for the last week. The defense announcement came immediately after Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows and Samuel G. Clawson announced that the state had reached the end of its testimony. The prosecutors later received permission to have J. F. Wood, a handwriting expert, recalled to the witness stand for additional testimony this morning.

Final Arguments Today.
Judge Jacob Hopkins said he would allow each side approximately two hours to present their final arguments to the jury today. It could not be definitely determined whether the case would reach the jury tonight or tomorrow morning.
At the conclusion of the state's testimony Defense Attorney Dougherty made three motions, all of which were overruled by Judge Hopkins. The first was to have the judge instruct the jury that the state had failed to prove the crime in Cook county, and the third was that the prosecution had failed in producing testimony to show that Miller was connected with any of the overt acts committed by J. Mitchell Blaine, co-conspirator, who has forfeited his bond.

New York Doctor Testifies.
Earlier in the day the defense attorneys had asked for the dismissal of the jury because of unfavorable publicity to the defendant. The jury is not locked up and the attorneys contended that if the jurors read the newspaper accounts of the trial it would be prejudicial. This was denied. The state wound up its testimony

WINS DIVORCE

Mrs. Elizabeth Wrenn Du Pont.
[Pacific and Atlantic Photo.]

Reno, Nev., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Elizabeth Wrenn Du Pont of Washington, D. C., was granted a divorce here today from Samuel Halleck Du Pont, grandson of one of the founders of the Du Pont fortune.

The papers in the case were sealed as they were filed and the case was heard shortly thereafter, Du Pont appearing by counsel and not contesting the action.

Custody of a two year old daughter, Eve, was awarded to Mrs. Du Pont. A substantial property settlement was effected out of court, but court approval was given to the settlement.

Du Pont and Miss Wrenn were married in Washington. It is understood the divorce was granted on grounds of incompatibility.

with the story of Dr. Maurice Kalms of New York. He testified that he negotiated with Blaine in a plan to secure licenses for ten men who had failed to get by the medical boards in the east. He also talked with Miller, he said. V. C. Nichols, who is now holding the position once held by Miller, testified that Miller and Blaine have not been connected with the state department since 1925.

POOR BOY ABOUT TO GET NEW SUIT DIES IN SCHOOL

Youngster Stricken with Heart Disease.

A few hours before Charles Scavuzzo, 13 years old, of 2718 Princeton avenue, was to have received a new suit of clothes for Christmas from the School Children's Aid society, yesterday, he fell dead in the Ward school, 2701 Shields avenue, where he was a pupil in the fifth grade. His death was attributed to heart disease by Dr. B. J. Zahn.

The boy set out for school yesterday morning unharmed for the first time this winter that his tattered suit was thin and his shoes without soles. The red letter day anticipated for weeks in the meager little home which he shared with his parents and five brothers and sisters was at hand. He and Jennie, John and Mary, aged 11, 9 and 8, were to be outfitted from head to toe in brand new clothing. Now Charles' new suit will become his shroud.

Boy Sickly, Cousin Says.
"Charles always did have a funny pain about his heart," his cousin Charles La Porte, 12 years old, of 258 West 26th street, explained. "He used to carry a paper route and I'd sometimes have to finish it for him because he'd get a pain in his side. His daddy doesn't make very much—just $20 a week—peddling coal."

At the headquarters of the Aid society at the Dante school, 840 South Des Plaines street, the emergency order for the Scavuzzo children, signed by the Ward school principal, topped a stack of orders three inches high sent from various Chicago public schools over the week-end. Mrs. George Allen MacCorkle, president of the society for many years, dispatched the clothing by special messenger, and turned to fifty or more children waiting in line with their mothers or sisters for new warm clothing so that they might attend school.

Many Wait in Lines.
"It is this way every day all winter long," Mrs. MacCorkle said. "The line is nearly always the same length from 9 a. m. till 3 p. m. We outfit from 250 to 500 daily. The fund is raised by the school children all over Chicago who contribute their pennies. This year they raised $70,000, but it will not be enough. It is an unusually hard winter. The fund will be exhausted long before the cold months are past."

The little woman bent over a bushel basket of old shoes.
"See these," she said. "No soles at all. And those—tennis shoes out at the toe and the ankles. There isn't much shoe left, you see. That's what we take off the feet of the school children who come here. They go to school like that—in rain or snow, in shoes that have no soles. Most of the boys and girls have never had a new pair of shoes in their lives. They wear hand-me-downs, patched and mended. The shoe expense is at least one-third of our clothing expenditure."

The School Children's Aid society was founded by Mrs. Murray P. Tuley in 1887, reorganized in 1888 by Mrs. Oliver H. Hicks as a standing committee of the Chicago Woman's club, and incorporated in 1913. Other women's clubs aid in the work and members serve at distribution headquarters.

TRAIN-GASTRUCK COLLISION FIRES COACHES; 1 DEAD

Bakersfield, Cal., Dec. 9.—(Special)—A railway mail clerk was killed, two others were perhaps fatally injured, and lives of passengers were endangered when a northbound Southern Pacific train crashed into the trailer of a gasoline truck near here. The 5,800 gallons of gasoline exploded and a sheet of liquid fire sprayed over the entire train, setting several coaches afire. The dead clerk was not identified by trainmen who said he was a new employe.

Engineer Tolland despite a curtain of fire remained at his post and brought the train to a stop, enabling all passengers to escape.

KANSAS CITY MAN IS NEW G. O. P. SENATE CAMPAIGN TREASURER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Theodore Gary, capitalist of Kansas City, today was elected treasurer of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. His name was proposed by Senator Roscoe Patterson of Missouri, a member of the committee, and he takes the place of Otto H. Kahn of New York, who was originally selected by Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the committee, but who withdrew after he had been the target of attacks by western senators.

RACE OWNERSHIP PLANE FOUND NEAR SOUTH BEND

James J. Leonard who runs a soft drink parlor at 7301 Madison street, West Park, yesterday acknowledged he had an interest in the trans-airplane which police and federal agents broke into Sunday after it was forced landing in a field near South Bend. The plane was temporarily abandoned by its pilot, Lou Henderson.

Leonard said yesterday that he had leased the ship, an old Curtiss Pigeon, built to carry large loads from the National Air Transport company about two months ago. Leonard said he never used the machine but turned it over to H. I. Peterson of Detroit.

Peterson said he was going to use the carrying shipments of magazines. Leonard said, "I sold the plane Nov. 18 and Peterson still owes me for the ship."

Police agents broke three locks on the plane but found the cargo compartment empty.

SIX INJURED AS AUTO RUNS INTO "L" TRAIN

Frank Zebdam, 49 years old, 3904 South 61st avenue, Cicero, a watchman at the 60th court crossing of the Douglas park branch of the Rapid Transit line in Cicero, and five motorists were injured last night when an automobile ran over Zebdam and then crashed into a westbound train. Zebdam suffered a fracture of the collar bone and severe cuts and bruises.

The others injured are Mrs. Esther Lasar, 47 years old, 1844 South Hoeman avenue; her daughter, Rava, 19, and her son, Harry, 17, and Meyer Miller, 24 years old, 3146 West 16th street, and his sister, Edna, 21. They were treated at the Frances Willard hospital for cuts and bruises. Zebdam walked into the path of the car which Miller was driving to warn him of the approaching train, but Miller failed to see him and ran him down before hitting the train.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to $44. The victims:

Mrs. Marion Levi, 27 years old, 6936 Drexel boulevard, wife of Jerome Levi, meat packer. Died in St. Luke's hospital yesterday of injuries received Sunday night when the automobile in which she was riding with her parents and husband collided with a taxicab at 11th street and Michigan avenue.

Settlo Tulini, 25 years old, 12030 Perry avenue. Died in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries received Sunday when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad train at State and 115th streets. Two companions were killed in the crash. Zigmund Cherninsky, 31 years old, 1118 South Custer street. Died in the Kerstone hospital of injuries received on Dec. 8, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Sammons, 2639 North Avers avenue, at Central and North avenues.

DRUGGAN, LAKE
VALUABLES GO ON
BLOCK THURSDAY

Income tax difficulties of Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, for some time partners in the beer business, are expected to be ended soon to the advantage of the government, according to Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue, and Robert R. Neely, chief deputy.

A report has been returned to the government by the Chicago Title and Trust company listing amounts of equities which the gangsters hold in their National Brewing company, Lake's Oak Park home and the valuable live stock on Druggan's estate, and the government has set Thursday to start auctioning off these properties.

On that date the west side brewery, Campbell avenue and Roosevelt road, will be put up for sale.

The tax collectors refused to discuss just how much Druggan and Lake have invested in the property in question, but it is understood to be much less than the $500,000 which the government claims they owe in delinquent taxes. Mrs. Blackledge and Mr. Neely said that conferences were being held with the gangsters' attorneys relative to the remainder of the sum, but they would not disclose how this would be settled.

SEEKS DIVORCE AS RUM PLEA FAILS TO FREE

Denied Annulment, Fails to Misconduct Charge

Two weeks ago Fred Stecker, 39 years old, 1933 Howe street, filed an annulment of his marriage when he failed to convince the court that the ceremony was void while he was in a drunken state. Yesterday Stecker, who is a tural iron foreman, filed a divorce in Superior court. His wife, Mrs. Margaret L. Stecker, 39 years old, The bill, drafted by Harry X. Cole, Esq., wife with improper relations a man named in the bill Krause.

The Steckers were married last July 20. They met at a drinking party, where she took advantage of his intoxicated condition and induced him to marry her at the Church of the Ascension (Episcopal), 1133 North La Salle street, according to the bill. The following day she came to his home and offered to forget the marriage for $200, it is charged. He was married under the name of Fred Erick because Mrs. Stecker did not know his name but knew that he was a half-brother by that name, the bill avers.

Plea Is Dismissed.
Stecker told this story before Circuit Judge Lynch Oct. 16. The judge called the clergyman, the Rev. J. Russell Vaughan, who declared that Stecker did not appear to be intoxicated and was able to answer questions and sign his name to the parish register. Mrs. Stecker could not be found.

Reports Finding Wife.
Stecker hired detectives to trace his wife, in the hope of winning a divorce on other grounds. The bill states that his wife was found at 2050 Washington boulevard living with Otto Krause. When confronted by her husband she is said to have pleaded with Stecker not to interfere, protesting her love for Krause.

The bill states that Stecker has never lived with his wife. The case will be heard by Superior Judge Sabath.

in the senate as "sons of wild jackasses." There were reports at that time that Senator Moses would be forced out of the chairmanship or that all the other members would resign. Neither action has been taken, and at present harmony prevails, at least on the surface.

Much of Mr. Gary's fortune was derived from royalties on slot machine telephone devices. He was born in Ohio in 1854.

TRACE OWNERSHIP OF PLANE FOUND NEAR SOUTH BEND

James J. Leonard who runs a soft drink parlor at 7301 Madison street, Forest Park, yesterday acknowledged that he had an interest in the transport airplane which police and federal officers broke into Sunday after it made a forced landing in a field near South Bend. The plane was temporarily abandoned by its pilot, Lou Hendricks.

Leonard said yesterday that he had purchased the ship, an old Curtiss Carrier Pigeon, built to carry large loads, from the National Air Transport company about two months ago.

Leonard said he never used the machine but turned it over to H. I. Peterson of Detroit.

Peterson said he was going to use it in carrying shipments of magazines. Leonard said, "I sold the plane on Nov. 15 and Peterson still owes me $2,600 for the ship."

The dry agents broke three locks on the plane but found the cargo compartment empty.

DRUGGAN, LAKE
VALUABLES GO ON

Income tax difficulties of Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, for some time partners in the beer business, are expected to be ended soon to the advantage of the government, according to Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue, and Robert E. Neeley, chief deputy.

A report has been returned to the government by the Chicago Title and Trust company listing amounts of equities which the gangsters hold in their National Brewing company, Lake's Oak Park home and the valuable live stock on Druggan's estate, and the government has set Thursday to start auctioning off these properties. On that date the west side brewery, Campbell avenue and Roosevelt road, will be put up for sale.

The tax collectors refused to discuss just how much Druggan and Lake have invested in the property in question, but it is understood to be much less than the $500,000 which the government claims they owe in delinquent taxes. Mrs. Blackledge and Mr. Neeley said that conferences were being held with the gangsters' attorneys relative to the remainder of the sum, but they would not disclose how this would be settled.

ROOSEVELT HERE TODAY; LEADERS OF PARTY GATHER

Governor to Be Guest at Two Events.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's reception of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York today bids fair to look like one of the old-fashioned state conventions. Party leaders from all sections of Illinois were trying in last night, and headquarters was swamped with requests for tickets for the luncheon at the Hotel Sherman.

Thomas F. Donovan, national committeeman, declared that practically every county in the state will be represented and that large groups are coming up from Egypt. He said the response has been a voluntary demonstration of the governor's popularity in Illinois among those who saw and heard him at the Houston and New York national conventions and in the 1928 campaign, when he was Democratic nominee for Vice President.

To Arrive at 8 A. M. Gov. Roosevelt is due to arrive at the La Salle street station at 8 a. m. Accompanying him is his secretary, Robert Flannery, and a state trooper. Mr. Donovan will meet the train at South Berd. The governor will be taken to the Blackstone hotel and from there to the Sherman for a

BABY, 5 MONTHS OLD, MAKES SEA VOYAGE WITHOUT RELATIVES

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Unaccompanied by relatives, Barbara Stens, 5 months old, arrived here today on the Grace liner Santa Barba from Chile to make her home in the United States with an aunt, Mrs. P. R. Doyle of Brooklyn.

Barbara was placed in care of Dr. C. Eastland, ship's surgeon, at Antofagasta by her father, J. C. Stens. The baby's mother, the former Miss Anna M. Foy of Minneapolis, died at her birth.

The child gained eight pounds during the voyage and was a pet of all the ship's passengers. Her aunt met her at the pier.

luncheon and reception in the Louis XVI. room.

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, is to serve as toastmaster. Col. A. A. Sprague, who was originally cast for that role, is a patient in the Passavant hospital.

Gov. Roosevelt's visit has as its first purpose the Commercial club dinner tonight at which he is to make an address. The dinner, which is to be at the Chicago club, is to be private, with the press not admitted. The Donovan luncheon was an afterthought to fill in the day, but it has grown to such proportions in advance that Committee man Donovan predicts it will be the greatest gathering of the Democratic clans since the occasion when Al Smith came to Chicago.

Shouse Will Be Present.

The governor's visit, it is declared, is nonpolitical, but politics will be attendant upon the day. J. J. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, left Washington yesterday and will be present. Informal conferences are expected to be held with Illinois and Cook county leaders. One effect the local leaders look for is to get the new branch national headquarters at the Sherman into real operation as part of the party machinery.

These headquarters, which are in charge of Edward J. Glackin as executive secretary, are one unit in the plan for state branches of the national organization to keep it going as an all the year around proposition instead of operating six months before an election.

Our purpose is to keep Mr. Shouse's headquarters at Washington in constant touch with situations and sentiment in the West, as part of the program for party rehabilitation.

TOLL OF DEAD IN CHINESE PIRATE RAID IS NOW 77

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HONGKONG, Dec. 9.—The four foreign passengers aboard the British steamer Haiching when it was raided by pirates were Mrs. George Campbell and her two daughters, Louise and Dorothy, all missionaries and formerly of Los Angeles, Cal., and one Britisher. All were uninjured. As previously reported, Third Officer K. F. Woodward was shot through the heart. The rest of the ship's officers got off with wounds. One Indian guard was killed instantly, another died of wounds, and two more were seriously injured.

Thirteen were killed in the fight, including ten pirates, and sixty-four natives are believed to have been drowned when they jumped into the sea when the pirates fired the ship.

The surprise attack of the pirates, who were disguised as passengers, was made at dawn and at 5 in the morning, when they were still battling with the officers, the British destroyer Sterling arrived in answer to an S. O. S. The destroyer made prisoners of all the desperadoes except eight, who are believed to have escaped by boat.

"... with guests coming for dinner we certainly made things hum. Thanks to a garden and an orchard right in my own pantry full of wonderful SAVOY fruits and vegetables, we were able to prepare a delicious hot meal quickly. "... Salmon loaf, made with Savoy Salmon, and baked to a delicious crackly brown (um-m-m-m, so tender and meaty), was our main dish. For dessert, big golden halves of Savoy Peaches on sponge cake, topped with whipped cream.

MRS. McCORMICK IS PUT ON STAND AGAINST HERSELF

Split with Dr. Kempf Over Gland Treatment.

BY GEORGE SHAFER.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 9.—(Special)—Attorneys for Harold P. McCormick and Mrs. Emmore Blaine today put their sister-in-law, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, on the stand as a witness against herself and devoted the day in an effort to depict her as a woman subordinating her interest in her husband's trend toward improvement to her resentment against his doctor.

Mrs. McCormick, whose nonjury suit to eliminate her brother-in-law and sister-in-law from positions with herself as her husband's guardians, is being heard by Judge William Dehy, admitted that she supported her husband's medical régime until the autumn of 1927. Her mind changed when Dr. Edward Kempf, whom she now opposes, indicated opposition to endocrine gland treatment for Stanley McCormick.

Asks Her About "Campaign."
"From that time on you became resentful, and conducted correspondence with Dr. R. G. Hoskins of Boston and Dr. A. Rowe, in which you spoke of 'a campaign' against Dr. Kempf's continuation with the patient?" Attorney Oscar Lawler inquired.

Mrs. McCormick replied, "I was bitterly disappointed at Kempf's refusal to consider physiological studies and I conducted correspondence toward the administration of the endocrine gland treatment and, if it seemed called for, endocrine treatment."

Mr. Lawler tried to get the witness to admit that she had not informed her co-guardians regarding her continued and confidential exchanges with Dr. Hoskins and his associates. The witness said that she had not informed Stanley's brothers or his sister about certain letters.

She finally arranged a meeting in Santa Barbara, it was shown, at which Dr. Hoskins and Dr. Kempf exchanged conversation. Dr. Hoskins gave Mrs. McCormick an estimate that her husband had no glandular deficiency, but the wife continued to wish a complete glandular survey and alluded to Kempf's treatment as "something like Christian science."

Hoskins Paid by "Foundation."

Dr. Hoskins, who was paid a yearly salary as director of "the Stanley McCormick foundation," had considerable correspondence with Mrs. McCormick, some of which reached the record. The "foundation," Mrs. McCormick testified, was carried on with funds from the Stanley McCormick estate, "for the purpose of making scientific investigation so as to bring to Mr. McCormick any advantages and disclosures of a scientific nature which might help him."

A letter from Dr. Hoskins to Mrs. McCormick, Jan. 9, 1928, was read over Attorney Newton D. Baker's objection. It said: "The mass impression I get is that you are handling the situation in an admirable manner. I feel that the key to the situation is your assumption of paramount rights. If things get so bad that the rest of the board must go down the drain, it will be unfortunate, but you have clear ethical rights."

Mr. Baker's protest to this correspondence between Mrs. McCormick and Hoskins induced Judge Dehy to rule out a few letters, but most of them reached the record after Mr. Lawler told the court, "It is the theory that Mrs. McCormick's attitude was affected by the personal situation; that her disappointment with Dr. Kempf grew to the point where it affected her judgment on matters involving the patient."

"Divorce" Note Causes Flurry.
A flurry followed testimony that Stanley McCormick once wrote his wife the message: "I divorce you." Mrs. McCormick said she knew of the note, but never received it.

All who corresponded with Stanley McCormick had their letters censored by the doctors, including his wife, it was brought out. When she inquired why some of the letters were withheld, the doctors explained that one letter referred to a divorce and that the subjects of marriage and divorce were kept from Mr. McCormick "because they always prove intensely disturbing to him."

Cyrus H. McCormick was too ill with a bad cold to appear today. He was to have been a witness today in behalf of his brother, Harold, and his sister, Mrs. Blaine. His illness is not threatening, but may keep him under treatment for another week or more.

Greetings to them...and you!

The happy spirits of the Log Cabin are scattered the world over for their Christmasing

SOME of them—courageous men and dauntless women—are sitting tonight in tents on [the edge of the raw African jungle. In the far Arctic others of our friends will look tonight on the northern lights waving like curtains of colored fire in the cold silent sky. Beyond the Himalayas, somewhere in the forbidden land of Tibet, there will be a queer Christmas party where several men from "the Avenue" will drink a toast to the folks back home.

But in whatever country they are, or on what long strange trails they travel, all our adventuring friends will look back to the homeland as they feel the heart-stirring call of Christmas.

We send our greetings to them and to all other outdoor men and women who are gathering around the home fires for the year's merriest, happiest hours at the end of the Christmas trail.

RUTH MCCORMICK, DENEEN SOUND CAMPAIGN CRIES

Senator Attacks County Administration.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Both United States Senator Deneen and Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, who has announced her candidacy against him, manifested yesterday what was construed as a desire to see the actual campaign started, although each has chosen the first week in January for the opening of real hostilities.

Senator Deneen addressed more than 100 of his followers—Chicago ward committeemen, country town precinct committeemen, and officeholders—at a luncheon at the Hotel Morrison. It was a closed meeting, but later the senator made public part of his speech, a criticism of the conditions existing in the local governments.

Mrs. McCormick, just before leaving for Washington on an afternoon train, issued a statement charging that a "propaganda factory" is circulating false yarns that she is not a bona fide candidate. She said that not only does she intend to remain in the race, but also she expects to win the nomination.

Deneen Haps County Rule. "Since the election of 1925," read Senator Deneen's manuscript, "every week has revealed in some measure the character of the misfeasance, nonfeasance, or malfeasance by certain public officials in this county.

"The people have been deceived, hoodwinked, and in part have permitted unworthy prejudice to influence their votes. In part they have been influenced by small favors to them against the law and the general good, and in a degree by the cohesive power of public plunder.

"The bankruptcy in the character of public officials which has been approved or tolerated by our people is now followed by bankruptcy in almost every department of government. The economic laws are as remorseless as the natural laws, and we will all soon pay the penalty of what we have approved or tolerated in our local government.

"We are to pay for it in high taxes, enormous interest on borrowed funds to conduct the government day by day; impaired police and fire protection and the lack of cleanliness in our city; in the public health, the poor and the sick must suffer.

To Be Judged on Ability.

"There will be no need to state political conditions or create issues in the coming primaries. Every one knows the facts. The contest will relate to the personality of the candidates, their ability and experience and character. They will be judged by their intelligence, initiative, energy, and sense of public service. Our duty is plain enough.

"In this great campaign let us emphasize that those who appeal to the prejudices of our citizens for votes and those citizens who permit their prejudices to determine their votes are equally unworthy and merit public condemnation.

"Let those who vote for illegal favors and for hire, and those who grant illegal favors and pay bribes be exposed alike as the enemies of the government and of the people."

Senator Deneen—outside his manuscript—also told his followers that his group has made no deal on a county ticket with any other faction or any Republican leader outside its own fold.

Mrs. McCormick's Statement.

The statement of Mrs. McCormick read as follows:

"Reports recently circulated in Illinois by my political opponents are intended to confuse the public as to the senatorial situation.

"A favorite bit of propaganda is that I am going to withdraw from the race for the United States senatorship. The Republicans of the state have been asked to believe that I have made a deal whereby I will withdraw from the present contest and make the race two years hence.

"These and other false reports have been spread over the state with such persistent energy that they at least do credit to the industry of the propaganda factory that is sending them out. It appears that in making these predictions the wish has been father to the thought.

She's in Senate Race.

"I want to say emphatically now that I am in the race for the Republican nomination for United States senator and that I shall be in the race every minute up to the closing of the polls on April 5, 1930.

"I traveled $4,000 miles in the state of Illinois in 1927 and 1928 in my campaign for congress and visited every county in the state. I am going to make an even more vigorous campaign for the senate. I have established state headquarters on the seventh floor of the London Guaranty and Accident building, 365 North Michigan avenue.

"I am returning to Washington today to attend the sessions of the annual rivers and harbors congress and to continue my regular duties in the house of representatives. I plan to start my speaking campaign immediately on my return from Washington on Jan. 6; and my time thereafter will be so divided that my work in Illinois will require a minimum of interruption of my duties in congress.

"I not only propose to press my campaign vigorously but I expect to be nominated on April 5, 1930."

Announces G. O. P. Meeting.

R. W. Snow, vice chairman of the Republican county central committee, announced that the committee will be called into session next Friday afternoon to tackle the task of reorganization made possible by the withdrawal of former Chairman Homer K. Galpin and Robert R. Grove, former state's attorney. The meeting probably will be held in the Hotel La Salle at 3 o'clock.

Among the speakers at a business dinner to Judge Marcus Kavanagh at the Congress hotel tonight are Robert Charles S. Whitman, former governor of New York; the Rev. John Cavanaugh, president emeritus of Notre Dame university; Brig. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, James Hamilton Lewis, and Silas H. Strawn.

What a Christmas! What a Christmas!

This week the banks will release six hundred million dollars in Christmas savings funds. One little news item that you will probably read here and there in the daily press.

One street of retail stores—and a street that is not over eight blocks long, at that—is estimating its Christmas business at sixty million dollars for the month.

My, what a busy time a handful of rich people would have running up and down that street, trying to buy sixty million dollars' worth of Christmas presents.

Or, what a time a few millionaires would have running around to all the banks in the country, trying to withdraw six hundred million dollars in Christmas savings funds. The average Christmas fund is around one hundred dollars, so they would have to make six million trips to the banks, wouldn't they? And that would be just to get out their Christmas savings funds. The regular savings funds total TWENTY-EIGHT BILLION DOLLARS.

And that is one fund that was hardly touched even in this recent market debacle. In fact, so far as this great backlog of people's savings was concerned, the loss was a little less than one-tenth of one percent.

All of which gets us back to where we started on this series of pages, many months ago: namely, that a millionaire cannot wear a hundred thousand pairs of shoes; and by the same token, he cannot buy a hundred million Christmas presents, nor do sixty million dollars' worth of shopping in a month, even when it happens to be conveniently located on a single street.

But a hundred million other people can do the Christmas shopping that America expects, if they have the money.

And, goodness knows! they have the money this year as never before.

America's great experiment is working better than anyone ever dreamed it could. Less than ten years ago we began that experiment of more money and more leisure for labor in order that it might be able to buy the things that it helped to make.

Today it is buying over 65 per cent in dollar volume of the things it helps to make. Today America could no longer get along without the buying-power of labor than it could without the production-power of capital. Which is just another way of saying that America cannot get along without -- America.

But it isn't even how much that great mass of American people are buying this Christmas that makes the story so thrilling. It is the freedom from care with which they are buying it, the freedom from worry in their eyes, the freedom from fear at their shoulder blades.

That's the story.

That's the big news.

Here at True Story Magazine we get the reflection of this situation so beautifully. For we are at the receiving end of these tens of thousands of manuscripts of personal experiences.

Ten years ago the stories of those savings accounts made an epic of struggle and privation. They were the little bulwarks that kept out the tide of fear. And when the necessity came, a man would draw on those savings very much as he would open a vein to give up some of his blood.

It was all here in thousands of these manuscripts ten years ago. Every story marked it for its theme. No money, no money, no time, no money. Over-work and under-pay, and every meager dollar carefully put away against the day when no more would be coming in.

Today, in these same true stories—what a different spirit is inspired! It isn't merely that those same bank accounts have multiplied by millions—savings and Christmas savings and checking accounts until the banks are bulging.

It's the attitude now with which they are looked upon.

"Bank account?" says Labor. "Of course, I have. A man's got to be substantial, hasn't he?"

And substantial is the word.

The grocery store, the drug store, the big department store, and even the credit-acceptance corporations are beginning to tell us how substantial labor is.

But we don't even need to go that far to get our basis for substantiality.

Every story in True Story Magazine tells that same tale.

Here in our editorial offices we can tell you now, as we could have told you a month ago, that there is going to be a great Christmas this year, but that it is not going to be a wild orgy of crazy expenditure.

The days of near-silk shirts and big glass diamonds are over.

There will be an enormous Christmas expenditure this year. But that is only as it should be, for America has had the most enormous business year that this or any other country has ever seen in the history of time. But even so, it will be a Christmas well within the range of what it ought to be.

In fact, our millions of True Story readers are telling us just what kind of a Christmas it is going to be. For they, you know, are the ones who are making it.

PEEPING ARNOLD WITNESS TELLS OF YACHT TRIP

Testifies for Husband in Divorce Suit.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The story of high jinks on the high seas as seen through a keyhole was related to a jury and as many spectators as could get into the courtroom today at the Arnold divorce trial.

Wilbur Wesley Williams, who engineered the yacht Scotian when he was not peeping, brought his little red notebook in just as soon as Martha Crenshaw, the 19 year old co-ed, had completed sobbing her story.

The lurid details concerning alleged indiscretions of the Ray H. Arnolds filled the clothes lines today. Mrs. Beadie Stumm Arnold has had her week in court, and now her wealthy husband is testifying in his counter accusations.

Wilbur, the peeping engineer, related some high spots of a hunt he says Mrs. Arnold took with the late Congressman Charles Pittsich in the Scotian.

The congressman and Mrs. Arnold had loaded the yacht and headed for Palm Beach, according to Wilbur's little red book. It was while anchored off Palm Beach that the high jinks took place.

The Engineer Peeped.

On the night of Feb. 18, 1926," testified the witness, "I saw Mrs. Arnold and Mr. Pittsich on the active in the main saloon. I was on deck—on the port side, where I had gone to get a breath of air. There was a wire down there and I just took a look."

"What time was it?" asked Kenneth Walser, attorney for Mr. Arnold. "Exactly 3 a. m.," answered the

TEST OF GAS TAX LAW SPEEDED BY ACTION OF SANGAMON COURT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Judge Frank W. Burton of the Sangamon Circuit court today dismissed six of the pending petitions attacking the validity of the Illinois gasoline tax statute of 1929. Final disposition of these cases will control the action which will be taken in 130 suits of similar character.

The decrees provide for appeal to the Illinois Supreme court within twenty days. In the event no appeal is effected, all the pending suits will be dismissed. If any of the cases are appealed, the disposition of the other cases will be controlled by the Supreme court's action. The time given for appeal will permit carrying the test cases to the February term of Supreme court.

Attorney Justus Chancellor of Chicago said the McHenry County Oil company had definitely determined to test the constitutionality of the gas tax law, and was prepared to go through with the case. Other companies declining to dismiss were the Dunkle Oil corporation, the Lyan Quality Oil company, the Charles V. Parker company, and the Foley Gasoline and Oil company.

Thus far the only attorneys designated to appear in behalf of the state were Assistant Attorneys General M. S. Winning and Harrington Wood. Senator Lowell B. Mason of Chicago was present and there was inquiry as to whom he represented.

peeper as he peeped into his notebook.

"What position were they in?"

"They were just lying there."

"Were they dressed?"

"Well, sir, when Mrs. Arnold got up she just wrapped a blanket around her."

Wilbur hooted it around to the starboard about this time. There was a door there that gave a full view.

Here he made what he admitted was his big mistake. He got caught with his nose in the door. The court would not let Wilbur tell what the congressman said to him when he was discovered, but Wilbur had it all written down.

Girl Witness Collapses.

Martha Crenshaw, who, with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw West, is accused of misconduct with Brother Arnold, collapsed on the witness stand today in a fit of sobbing.

"Have you ever seen your mother and Mr. Arnold in an indiscreet situation?" she was asked.

Mrs. Crenshaw opened her mouth wide and looked at her mother.

"My mother indiscreet with Uncle Ray?" she said, shocked. "It's absurd."

The witness admitted that on three occasions she occupied a room in Mr. Arnold's apartment in East 67th street when the only other person present was a butler.

"I only stayed there when I had girl friends from college in the city," she explained.

Wife Knew Love By Gas.

Mrs. Vera Knapp, 45 years old, 811 East 75th street, committed suicide yesterday in the kitchen of her home by inhaling gas.

Her husband, Christopher, who found the body slumped over the stove with a bath robe over the head, said his wife had been in poor health for six years.

Page & Shaw is the only concern operating on a sane system with its own shops and work rooms on both sides of the Atlantic and clear across this continent.

TRANSFER SYSTEM

Page & Shaw has a unique transfer system, whereby your order to deliver candy anywhere on this continent, or abroad, is forwarded to the local Page & Shaw branch or agency, which delivers the candy fresh and in perfect condition. The order has to do the traveling, rather than the candy.

THE ART OF GIVING

A gift should bring satisfaction twice, to him that gives, and him that receives. Its merit must be known to both. GOV. EMMERSON IN CAPITAL FOR WATERWAYS AID

Illinois Executive Talks with President.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—This is inland waterway development week in the national capital.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today discussed the Illinois waterway project with President Hoover and Secretary of War Hurley. While no statement was authorized as to the administration's attitude, it is known to be sympathetic to the proposal that the federal government contribute funds necessary for the completion of the Illinois state project.

Gov. Emmerson asserted that there is every reason to believe that the waterway will be completed on scheduled time.

The Illinois executive was one of the early arrivals for the twenty-fifth convention of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which meets tomorrow and Wednesday.

Chamber to Give Luncheon.

Tomorrow noon Gov. Emmerson and other delegates from Illinois and the Illinois delegation in congress will participate in a luncheon given by the Illinois chamber of commerce.

The Illinois waterway, lake levels and the Chicago water diversion controversy will figure in speeches tomorrow in the house. Representative W. E. Hall (Rep., Ill.) has announced that he will address the house on the subject, and Representative W. H. Stafford (Rep., Wis.) intends to reply on behalf of the lake states opposing continued diversion of water at Chicago.

Representative Hall also is scheduled to address the National Rivers and Harbors congress on "The Lakes to the Gulf Waterway."

Gov. Emmerson, conferred with President Hoover alone. Later, accompanied by William R. Dewes of Chicago, president of the Mississippi Valley association, and Cleveland Newton of St. Louis, counsel for the association, he talked with Secretary Hurley.

Talks with Lawmakers.

The governor also went to the capitol, appearing on the floor of the senate and talking with Senator Otis F. Glenn (Rep., Ill.), and members of the Illinois delegation in the house.

As the situation now stands, the proposal for the completion of the Illinois state waterway project will be presented to the house rivers and harbors committee soon after the holidays for inclusion in a general rivers and harbors bill. The amount needed is estimated at $7,500,000, this total being reported as having been fixed in the report sent to be transmitted by the army engineers to congress. W. F. Mulvihill, state superintendent of waterways in Illinois, had estimated that the cost would exceed by a little less than $6,000,000 the proceeds of the $10,000,000 state bond issue.

SECOND INDIANA LIQUOR TRIAL ON TOMORROW

The second Gary rum conspiracy to be presented to a jury will be heard tomorrow morning before federal Judge Stick at Hammond when two Negro aldermen, two Negro attorneys, ten policemen and four alleged bootleggers will be put on trial. The first trial was concluded Sunday, when Police Captain Charles Wampler and bootleggers Alex Santi and Sandro Necca were found guilty. The jury disagreed on seven other policemen who were also on trial.

Aldermen A. B. Whitlock and S. R. Blackwell, the latter a physician, head the list of reputed conspirators, and Police Captain James R. Vodka and Lieut. Matt Leach are included among the defendants. The indictments were returned early in October among 300 officers and grew out of an investigation of the so-called "Carling incident," wherein a truckload of beer which disappeared en route through

TWO ALDERMEN FIGURE IN CIVIL SERVICE INQUIRY

Two south side aldermen have been mentioned in connection with the civil service investigation being conducted by Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin. The prosecutor, however, refused to say yesterday whether he thought the evidence he has would warrant any action against the aldermen.

The names of the two aldermen were mentioned by policemen, who were reinstated long after they had been discharged from the department. One colored policeman said he had paid $300 to an alderman and another said he had "paid a retainer" to another alderman to act as his attorney. A third policeman said that he was told that a ward committeeman was responsible for his re-instatement.

The prosecutors said they hoped to be in a position next week to present evidence to the grand jury.

Furniture Polish in Food; Family of Five Stricken

Max Miller, 1236 South Union avenue, a laborer, and four members of his family were taken to the county hospital last night suffering from acute gastritis after they had eaten meat balls fried in furniture polish. The others who were stricken are Miller's wife and his three children, Shirley, 18 years old; Reva, 8 years old; and Aaron, 3 years old. A Negro cook, who was unable to read, mistook the polish for cooking oil. After treatment at the hospital the family returned home. Their condition is not serious.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritation, and is especially for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking Creomulsion in directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

SPEAKEASY BAR SITE OPERATIONAL

John D. Jr.
Giant N. Y.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The prohibition is playing a part in preventing New York's opera house in the city from becoming known to the public. The opera project administration dropped because the holders, including a person closely connected with the project, are operating speakies.

The three midtowning eleven acres, situated between 11th and 12th avenues, which Heller Jr. leased from the university for eighty years, aggregate rental of a number of speakies estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000.

1931 Lease

When the announcement last Friday that the Opera and Real Estate company had formally abandoned a new opera house in New York, it was stated that "the company had been abandoned because the project was not feasible." The delay, he said, was due to the fact that the project was not feasible.

It has now been reported that the project is still in the air. The project is still in the air. The project is still in the air.

Mr. Debevoise told that any speaker who had had a part in the project had been abandoned because of the project's failure. As a matter of fact, it is well known that the project is still in the air.

SPEAKEASIES BAR SITE FOR OPERA PALACE

John D. Jr. Abandons
Giant N. Y. Project.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Prohibition is playing an important part in preventing New York from having an opera house in Rockefeller City. It became known today when several persons closely connected with the opera project admitted it had been dropped because many of the leaseholders, including a large number who are operating speakeasies, refused to be tested.

The three midtown blocks comprising eleven acres, running from 48th to 51st streets between 5th avenue and 6th avenue, which John D. Rockefeller Jr. leased from Columbia University for eighty-seven years at an aggregate rental of $261,000,000, house a number of speakeasies variously estimated at from 50 to 100.

1931 Leases Cited.

When the announcement was made last Friday that the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate company had formally abandoned its plan to erect an opera house in Rockefeller City, M. Debevoise, Rockefeller spokesman, stated that "the property is encumbered by Columbia University leases which do not mature until Nov. 1, 1931, and it has been found impossible to secure possession of the site for the construction of the opera house, before that date."

The delay, he said, constitutes "an insuperable obstacle" to the carrying out of the project.

It has now been learned that speakeasy operators are so strongly entrenched in this city that they can veritably become part of "an insuperable obstacle" to such an important civic project as the new opera house, a part of the project which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler described at the time the Rockefeller lease was announced as "doubtless the most important happening from the viewpoint of both the city and the university that has taken place in a generation, perhaps in a century."

Mr. Debevoise today declined to admit that any speakeasy leaseholders had had a part in blocking the operation of the opera house, although stating that the project had definitely been abandoned because of the difficulties encountered with leaseholders. As a matter of common knowledge it is well known that 49th and 50th streets, between 5th and 6th avenues, are literally honeycombed with speakeasies, some of which are the best known drinking places in the midtown section.

SEE NO REASON TO BOOST PRICE
FOR NEWSPRINT

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The board of directors and the newspaper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association tonight announced they had decided to inform newspaper manufacturers that they see no justification for an increase in the price of newsprint.

At a special newspaper convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania a resolution was adopted directing the officers of the A. N. P. A. to "take up with federal authorities the question as to whether there is any redress open in this situation through federal government action."

The part taken by the provincial governments of Ontario and Quebec in advocating higher newsprint prices was declared by Charles Taylor of the Boston Globe and other publishers to have been brought about by pressure of financial interests which control paper mills now running at a loss in those provinces.

Adolph B. Cohen, publisher of the New York Times, said that any increase in newsprint prices would be unjustified and that paper manufacturers have given no "good reason" to increase their prices except to make more money, and that they want more money to pay the dividends on "watered stock."

Auction Office Furniture of Alleged Absconder

Sam Howard, federal receiver, yesterday auctioned off the furniture of Louis Gottlieb, alleged absconder in the law office formerly occupied by him at 1512 North Halsted street. The office furniture brought $355. The shortage in Gottlieb's mortgage transactions is estimated at $500,000. From New York City reports that Gottlieb is believed to be on his way to South America.

U. S. JUDGE WEIGHS KLAN SUITS AGAINST WATSON AND LESLIE

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Special Judge Fred L. Wham, East St. Louis, Ill., today had under advisement two $50,000 damage suits, one against Gov. Harry G. Leslie, and the other against Senator James E. Watson and others.

Otto Gresham is plaintiff in the suit against Leslie and William Rogers, former Ku Klux Klan official, is plaintiff in the Watson suit.

In the suit against Leslie, Gresham charged that when the governor was speaker he refused to permit Gresham to file a petition with the house in the 1927 session for a legislative investigation of the administration of justice in Marion county under the management of Judge James A. Collins of the Marion county Criminal court.

Defendants in the other suit include Watson, George V. Coffin, Republican county chairman here, Bert Thurman, Republican national committeeman, and Judge Collins.

Rogers has charged that after he testified in the investigation here of Klan activities in the state conducted by former Senator James A. Reed's senate committee, that Watson and the other defendants attempted to intimidate him into repudiating his testimony.

Three in Auto Robbed of Jewels Valued at $6,900

Jack Siegel, president of the General Market house, 3714 Cottage Grove avenue, Martin Andreas of the Morrison hotel, general manager of the firm, and Mrs. Andreas, were held up by four young men early yesterday morning at 49th street and Cottage Grove avenue as Siegel was driving them to his home at 7711 Yates avenue. The robbers escaped with cash and jewels valued at $6,900.

$500,000 SUIT IS FILED AGAINST RADIO COMPANY

A suit for $500,000 damages charging breach of contract was filed in the United States District court yesterday against the Balket Radio company on behalf of the First National Radio corporation of New York. The Balket company, which has a plant in North Chicago, failed to keep a contract for delivery of 50,000 radios during two years to the suing corporation, according to Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lauman and Levinson, attorneys for the complainant.

A separate suit for $50,000 damages was filed against the same concern for the Balket Sales company, a subsidiary of the First National Radio corporation.

A. C. Bachrach, attorney for the Balket Radio company, said delivery of the radios on a credit basis had been stopped because of the recent slump in the radio industry. He said that an offer to continue the terms of the contract on a cash basis had been refused by the complainant.

3 BANDITS ROB BANK MESSENGER ON STREET CAR

Police last night were seeking three bandits who robbed Antonio Lavato, messenger for the Atlas Exchange bank, Taylor and Halsted streets, of $1,500 in cash while he was a passenger on a Taylor street car. The robbery occurred yesterday at Canal and Taylor streets. Several other passengers on the car were threatened with revolvers.

Lavato was on his way to a loop bank with the currency and canceled checks totaling $5,000 in a satchel. At Canal street three roughly dressed men boarded the car and drew revolvers.

While one of the robbers forced Lavato to face the window as he grabbed the messenger's satchel, a companion threatened the conductor with a revolver, and the third bandit leveled his weapon at the other passengers, two girls and a man. The bandits fled in an automobile which, police said, was reported stolen from J. B. Burns, 5428 Woodlawn avenue.

GUNMEN HOLD UP HOTEL CLERK.
Two armed men entered the Kemmore hotel, 5325 Kemmore avenue, early yesterday, held up the night clerk, Charles Barrett, and escaped with $50 and a strongbox belonging to a guest, Miss Agnes Nale.

BUSINESS CLUBS FOR SESSION ON 13 MONTH YEAR

Referendum by Chamber Balks Movement.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Full support of the United States Chamber of Commerce to the movement for an international conference on simplifying the calendar was pledged by officials of that organization today following a final canvass of votes in a referendum on the plan conducted among business interests.

Results of the referendum showed that more than two-thirds of the business clubs and associations voting favor participation of the United States in a conference to determine what changes should be made in the calendar. The plan, widely advocated, calls for a year of thirteen months of twenty-eight days each.

Eastman for Conference.
"The most important thing is to have an international conference," stated George Eastman, chairman of the chamber's national committee on calendar simplification.

"Events are definitely moving toward such a conference under the auspices of the league of nations in 1931. The referendum of the United States chamber, confirming, as it does, the inquiry of the committee, conclusively shows the prevalence in this country of a strong demand for calendar improvement and a desire that the United States should participate in an international conference on the question."

Chicago Majority for It.
Fifty-eight Chicago organizations were represented in the referendum, each casting from one to ten votes, according to its membership. The Chicago vote was 53 for and 46 against a conference. Other cities in Illinois voted 53 to 21 in favor of the conference.

Among the Chicago organizations approving the calendar reform movement were the Board of Trade, Institute of American Meat Packers, National Association of Ice Industries, National Shoe Retailers' association, Portland Cement association, Gas Products association, American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association, and the Woman's Association of Commerce. The Chicago Association of Commerce approved the conference plan, but did not register its view directly on the question of calendar changes.

IF I WERE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The Tribune invites witty, brief statements describing what you would do if you were President of the United States. The invitation is to Tribune readers everywhere. Address Government Editor, The Tribune.

Editor: I would use all the force, influence, cajolery, insinuation, or inducement at my command towards the elimination of unnecessary noises in American cities. Starting with Chicago, this would mean scrapping all the flat wheels on the street cars and taking the rattle, screech, and bang out of the "L." P. J. DOLAN.

Editor: I would request congress to appropriate an amount sufficient to purchase the entire output of the "Linebook," and have them all chucked in the Chicago river, where the current flows the swiftest. H. L. T. CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

Editor: I would use the annual surplus to pay off the national debt. JOHN H. MARSHOR, Milwaukee.

Editor: I would not allow any newspaper to be printed except in clear, readable book type not smaller than pica, and thus save the eyes of the nation. R. PARSON, 8709 Dorchester avenue.

Editor: I would make a special appeal to the people to stay away from "talkie picture shows" until the "flesh and blood actor" again comes into his own, thereby returning employment to about 100,000 musicians who have been singing the "Uta-phone Blues" for the past year or two. Science-bah! Roy EWING, Gary, Ind.

Editor: My first desire would be to hurry the work on the St. Lawrence to the gulf waterway. This is one of the few remaining necessities to make Chicago prosperous, and become the foremost city in the world. SIDNEY SHIMEL, 1866 Humboldt boulevard.

Editor: I would recommend changing the motto on the silver dollar to read, "In God we trust and try to play fair to humanity." This is a summary of religion as taught in the old and new testaments. If this ambition or purpose were installed in the minds of all as early as possible we would need no crime commission. MRS. FRED C. HUBBARD, Chicago, Ill.

Editor: I would request the postmaster general to keep the "stamp" window open until midnight in every postoffice where the population is ten thousand or more. J. D. COPELAND, Niles Center.

U. S. GRAND JURY FAILS TO ACT ON BROOKHART'S TIP

Report Says 'Booze Party' Quiz Is Ended.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart's testimony that he smelled liquor consumed at the so-called "Wall street booze party" given to new senators at the Willard hotel in 1926 has failed to result in action by the District of Columbia grand jury, which made a report on its investigation today.

The report stated that the inquiry will be dropped and no indictments returned because of "the lack of evidence, together with the extraordinary lapse of time between the alleged violation and the revelation of the facts" relating to the party. Thus, so far as any official action is concerned, the hubbub started by the Iowa senator when he "exposed" the dinner came to an end.

Tells About Flasks.
Brookhart told the senate and later the grand jury that silver hip flasks were distributed as favors at the dinner, and that he saw E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, one of the guests, pour out and drink what his nose told him was "strong alcoholic stuff." On the strength of Brookhart's testimony Loomis and others were subpoenaed, but were reported to have failed to remember anything about the drinks served. Questioned as he left the grand jury room, Mr. Loomis said: "You don't expect me, a guest at

SURVEY STARTED ON COST OF WIDENING BROADWAY TO 100 FT.

New York, Dec. 9.—(Special.)—The directors of the Broadway association at a meeting today, announced they had employed an engineer to make a survey of Broadway between City Hall park and 23d street, with a view of widening the street from the present 44½ feet to 100 feet.

His report, if it first meets with the approval of the association, will be submitted to the city. The association contends the widening is essential.

Jury Makes Report.

The grand jury report, which made no comment upon Senator Brookhart's testimony, read as follows:

"Upon information reaching the grand jury as to alleged violations of the national prohibition act occurring at a dinner party given during the month of December, 1926, by one Walter J. Fahy, the United States attorney directed the issuance of subpoenas to certain witnesses.

"Various witnesses appeared and placed before this body all the facts in their possession with regard to said alleged violations. This matter having been considered by the grand jury, it is deemed that the lack of evidence, together with the extraordinary lapse of time between the alleged violations and the revelation of the facts relating to this affair, make it impracticable for the grand jury to consider the matter further."

WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Dec. 9.—Claiming to have been hit out of bounds and managing great pain, Fighting Phil Dempsey, the English heavyweight, went to his room within thirty seconds of the second round began in his charity bout with Otto Von Porat, the German, at the Garden this evening.

Dempsey, who was gliding in the ring with sinuous grace in a gray uniform of a licensed New York referee by special permission of the prize fight commissioners, was being his neck in the reflection of the 12 karat brass rings at the instant of impact and, on being about, was influenced by the man he met. This chance to see Johnston, the manager for Fighting Phil Scott, ignoring the gentle wallowing of his athlete lay on the floor flopping like a fish on the bottom of a boat and uttering strange guttural sounds, this man immediately launched into an onslaught with Mr. Dempsey. And before any one from Von Porat's corner could break through this Johnston's men to squawk a word for the Dempsey was convinced that Fighting Phil had been fouled and so

Fighting Phil took off as though he was a springboard over a ten foot wall, described a parabolic flight and landed on the boards on his delicately featured in a perfect dry-dive.

Five minutes more passed before Walter began his scoring spree with three baskets in quick succession. Riel followed with another and the Wildcats pulled away rapidly. Walter, who was out most of last year with an injured knee, was still wearing a bandage, which may have made him slightly less speedy than formerly, but it didn't affect his basket eye at all. Naturally, with only a week of intensive practice, the Iowans were somewhat timid and the looseness characteristic of early season play was evident, but it appeared as if Northwestern is likely to give the other conference teams full sized battles.

Northwestern's Wildcats opened the basketball season with an easy but not particularly impressive victory over Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Ia., 30 to 13, at Patten gym last night. The game was strongly defensive, but after the Iowans had taken the lead on the first basket the Wildcats moved out in front to win without effort.

For the most part the play was rather rugged but fouls were infrequent, and Northwestern showed promise in working the ball under the basket for short shots. Bert Riel, Rut Walter, and Russell Berghorn led that passing attack, which resulted in enough under the basket shots for the first game.

At the half they led, 13 to 4, and pushed it up to 28 before the Iowans scored again. Then the third string subs began to take over the job.

NORTHWESTERN (20); CORNELL (13);

Walter, who was out most of last year with an injured knee, was still wearing a bandage, which may have made him slightly less speedy than formerly, but it didn't affect his basket eye at all. The big center from Kokomo dropped in eight baskets and a free throw to lead the scoring. None of the Iowans could collect more than a basket and a couple of free throws.

With the game safely in hand Coach

Arthur A. Lomborg used all save two of his substitutes. Naturally, with only a week of intensive practice, the Iowans were somewhat timid and the looseness characteristic of early season play was evident, but it appeared as if Northwestern is likely to give the other conference teams full sized battles.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

IOWA'S PRESENT POSITION.

THE Wake has no formal comment to make on the Iowa decision. We had anticipated restoration of the Hawkeyes to athletic privileges. We are disappointed they were not so restored. Yet, in fairness, one can no more question the sincerity of those voting for an adverse report than one can question Iowa's sincere belief it had done all required or that could be expected.

Plainly, Iowa did not play politics.

No doubt it would have won its plea had certain athletes been declared ineligible. Iowa took the ground a principle was involved—that the boys were victims of a system then prevailing at Iowa City and that to disqualify them for something handed to them, semi-officially at least, was unfair to the boys. We can sympathize with that viewpoint.

The next step is up to Iowa—whether again to seek athletic relations with the conference schools, to join some other body, or to go it alone. The exclusion of 5 to 4 (called unanimous by previous understanding that whatever the verdict it would be unanimous) must convince Iowa it has friends in the conference. Public opinion, we venture, is 95 per cent sympathetic toward Iowa.

Iowa has a problem. Its own authorities must decide what is best for the university. If it decides for another appeal to the conference, its sports schedules in the meantime will be more or less makeshift or haphazard with a view to eventual return. If it decides to go it alone, then contrast for football games for two or four or six years in advance may be signed with development of new rivalries. That is something Iowa alone may determine.

The Wake is one of those optimists who does not think the nation or amateur sport is going to the demerol how-ows. Over a period of time, whatever is best usually evolves. We have no reason to think that will not prove the case for Iowa and for the conference.

WAS REJECTEDN. U. Professor Explains
Big Nine's Stand.

Ask for Stadium Dates

SOUTH PARK officials announced last night that a communication had been received from Edward F. Lauer of the University of Iowa, requesting the list of open dates for Soldiers' field during the 1930 football season. No opponent was mentioned in the request. The list of open dates, of which there are at least four, will be forwarded to the Hawkeye athletic director.

In the rush and bustle of putting together the process by which the Big Ten faculty committee on Saturday arrived at its decision to turn Iowa out into the world, other actions taken by the athletic chiefs were overlooked.

One piece of important business disposed of, but on which no announcement was made, involved "migratory" athletes who in the older days when there was less inclination to look upon athletes as supermen, were designated as "tramps."

The number of schools in which they collected their knowledge depended on the number of flatterings "offers" received.

Hawkeyes Go to Work on
New Schedule

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—

Peweeh activities in schedule making occupied University of Iowa coaches today.

Football is the only major sport in which prospects are still hazy, though Coach Burt Ingwersen hopes to be able to announce tentative bookings tomorrow.

Negotiations are under way with Nebraska, Penn State, Georgia Tech, Texas Aggies, Oklahoma, and Marquette. There is a possibility that Penn State will play here Nov. 15 and Nebraska a week later, while hope was held out for a battle with Georgia Tech on Soldiers' field in Chicago.

In basketball, the most significant development was the carding of two games with Drake university of Des Moines, indicating that the old Hawkeye policy of not competing with other Iowa institutions may be abandoned.

C. C. Williams, chairman of the athletic board, said today that the board, in deciding this question, probably would give much weight to the recommendations of the athletic staff.

The basketball card now reads as follows:

Dec. 9—Duquesne at Iowa.
Dec. 11—Pittsburgh at Iowa.
Dec. 12—Marquette at Milwaukee.
Dec. 13—Notre Dame at South Bend.
Jan. 4—South Dakota State at Iowa City.
Jan. 14—Drake at Iowa City.
Feb. 15—Oklahoma Aggies at Iowa City.
Feb. 22—Drake at Des Moines.

Negotiations also are under way with Missouri, Nebraska, Washington of St. Louis, Montana State, Colorado State Teachers, and Notre Dame.

LOYOLA CAGERS
MEET DUQUESNE
TOMORROW NIGHT

Loyola university's basketball team opens its season against Duquesne university of Pittsburgh at the north side school's gymnasium tomorrow night.

Only two veterans of last year's squad remain in the Loyola lineup, but these two are a potent scoring combination. Capt. Charles Murphy, who is nearly as long as that other famed Charles Murphy—Stretch of Purdue—will jump center and Mike Wasson, a star center in his prep school days, will play one forward.

FINAL WHEAT TRADES SHOW 2 TO 3C LOSSES

Bearish News Predominates on Board.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment predominated yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Long wheat was on top the greater part of the day, with prices declining sharply to a new low on the present movement, and at the inside showed 2 to 3c below the high of last Tuesday.

Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with the break checked by buying against bids, and final prices were at net losses of 2 1/2 to 3c. Wheat was net weaker than Chicago and closed 2 1/2 to 3c lower. Argentine crop reports have lost their influence on the market, and the future of a sustained foreign demand to develop has had a depressing effect on wheat, while the decrease of 2,117,000 bu in the domestic visible supply was below trade expectations and led to selling. Total stocks are now 122,489,000 bu, against 125,101,000 bu last year. Export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 499,000 bu, including Manitoba to the continent, but the general demand from abroad was reported as slow.

Liverpool wheat finished 2 1/2 to 3c lower for the day, with Broomhall's estimate of 202,000,000 bu for Argentina regarded as bearish. The latter figure puts Broomhall in line with the recent estimates made by Nat C. Murray and H. O. Cronwell, the American observers, who are now on their way home. An exportable surplus of 120,000,000 bu is indicated, while the carry over of old grain is placed at 8,000,000 bu, making a total available surplus of 148,000,000 bu. Buenos Aires and Rosario closed 1 1/2 to 2c lower.

Recent advance in wheat prices resulted in much freer offerings of cash grain in the southwest, and this was reflected in arrivals of 470 cars at Kansas City, 273 cars at Hutchinson, and 110 cars at Wichita, Kas. However, the spot basis showed little change, as there was a fair milling demand, and the movement is expected to be of short duration.

Wheat futures had several sharp rallies, with the buying credited to a local professional who was recently a bull seller. However, houses with western and northwestern connections sold freely, and when the buying let up a lack of support was disclosed. The fact that deliveries of rye in car lots on December contracts will be permitted on and after Dec. 14 had some effect on wheat, bringing in selling orders.

Corn Weakens With Wheat.

Outside interest in corn continues light and the market showed an easier undertone in sympathy with wheat, the close being 1/8 to 1/4c lower. A feature was the selling of December and buying of May at 8c difference. Offerings in the sample market were liberal, with receipts 577 cars, and the spot basis was steady to 3c lower. Forecast for rain or snow over the belt led to some buying early, but the upturn was short lived. Highly beneficial rains fell in parts of Argentina, with futures in Buenos Aires closing 1/2 to 3/4c lower, the latter on May. An increase of 597,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, with total stocks 3,854,000 bu, against 3,670,000 bu last year.

Action of the Board of Trade directors in permitting the delivery of rye in car lots on track after Dec. 13 led to increased pressure on that grain, with the close 2 1/2 to 3c lower. Under this ruling, grain can be loaded out from private elevators and delivered on track, and will increase the stock of deliverable grain to over 5,000,000 bu. Warehouse receipts for 247,000 bu of rye in public elevators were cancelled for shipment Saturday.

Which of these "tallest" buildings will offer tenants Manufactured Weather?

Theatres and department stores have proved that people choose to go where air is conditioned for maximum comfort and health the year round.

Already tenants are enjoying this modern comfort in numerous offices.

How long will it be before occupants of all modern office buildings will demand the same thing?

NEARLY every great building goes up on a spot where an obsolete building was torn down. Through the mind of every building owner creeps the thought "How soon will this new structure be obsolete? What will finally de-modernize it? What will some newer building offer which mine will not have?"

Manufactured Weather is today a fact. Congress meets in a room where, winter and summer, the air is warmed or cooled, humidified or de-humidified as the season demands, and always it is fresh, changing, and literally washed clean.

Macy's in New York, Hudson's in Detroit, and a dozen other famous department stores, attract and hold shoppers by thousands because of their relief and contentment in the fresh, pleasant Manufactured Weather of the store—~~independent of outdoor heat or cold or noise or dust.~~

Factories by hundreds use windows only for light. Sheer manufacturing economy has dictated that indoor air conditions must be constant and controllable.

Will the office building of the future (say a year from now, or two years) be "modern" with window poles in the corners, dust cloths in the desk drawers, nerve-racking street noises in the ears of workers—drafty spots near the windows for executives and stuffy inner spaces for clerks.

Or will Manufactured Weather be as much a part of the modern hotel and the modern office building as electric wiring and plumbing?

Visit a theatre, a store, a factory or a building where Manufactured Weather is already in operation and answer for yourself.

Until you have done this, any estimate—any conception—you may have will fall short of the comfort, the serenity, and the cleanliness that Manufactured Weather has to offer.

There is only one Manufactured Weather. It is the product of Willis H. Carrier and his associates.

John Andrew Kellogg awakes in a strange room to learn that he has been robbed of his money and traveling bag by a former college acquaintance named Jennings after a carnival night out together. The landlady of the strange boarding house insists that all telephone money be turned in before she allows him to dress. He goes out to a girl who stays in astonishment at his appearance.

INSTALLMENT II
AN ORDEAL

When John Andrew had finished dressing he looked into the mirror above the dresser, and wished again that he had his bag, that he might shave. He remembered now, all too clearly, what the girl had temporarily made him forget. That Craig had said. Kellogg's face grew rather white. He had, he realized, been a fool, but who would have thought that a . . . well, not a friend exactly, but a fellow you'd know in college, and who was down in his luck, would play such a shabby trick as Jennings had?

He sat quietly in the room's one chair until Craig's messenger came; paid his bill, and grinned when the landlady said she'd never seen anything like it. "You mean the pajamas?" John Andrew asked.

"Them, too," the landlady agreed. The money in pocket, she could afford to be more friendly. "Even Anne said that she'd never seen hotter ones in her life."

"Expert in 'em, is she?" Kellogg said hastily.

"I'm sorry Anne's leaving," the landlady said to him severely. "Anne's a good girl; she's lived with me six months, and never once forgot. . ."

Kellogg remembered the word or so that had drifted up to him when the girl had telephoned. "I wish her luck," he said. "She'll need it in Hollywood."

"She'll get there, Anne doesn't need luck. She can take care of herself. . . how she laughed when you were out of sight!"

"John Andrew said dinky. 'Did she?' I don't blame her." Nevertheless, he did it came to him vividly what sort of a figure he must have seemed. "You tell Anne that if she doesn't need luck, I do."

In the sunlight, he forced himself to forget the girl who had made his life so hard; he put a hand over his chin, and then determined to look over the presentable before he tackled the office and Saunders. He swung himself around an "el" pillar at the third downtown street, and walked a half block to the nearest hotel.

He stopped at the flower stand, and, glancing at his tie, bought three red flowers, leaving over the counter the girl thrust them through his buttonhole. Blise . . . like Anne's dress. He wondered if her eyes had passed his luck. . .

"Passing the bank, a clerk at the cashier's window called to him. 'Mr. Kellogg! You were here last evening with a friend. Your friend, I regret to inform you, cashed a check with us—'

"How much?" John Andrew asked.

"It just came back from the bank, sir; the same bank we use. Fifty dollars."

A voice whispered to John Andrew, "Come on, laddie; be tough. Tell him to go chase himself; that Jennings isn't more a friend than that porter with an armful of bags . . ."

John Andrew reached for his checkbook, saying, "Sorry."

He saw almost four hundred still to his credit.

"I couldn't include this with your bill at the end of the month, sir; things of this sort . . . unfortunate . . . didn't know how you would feel about it."

"I feel like hell about it, if you must know," Kellogg said. "Hardly the end of a perfect . . ."

"You . . . you seemed to be having an excellent time while you were here last night, sir."

"Um," John Andrew said. "Well, I'm glad to hear it."

Outside, the noise stirred him, as it always did. His nostrils moved as the muffled odor of gasfurns from the open hotel door reached him—a strange, singularly New York smell, into which the fumes of tobacco were mixed. John Andrew felt like walking through Central Park, and looking fallen leaves just to hear the crackle they made; like feeding bright red squirrels; like buying bags of chestnuts and . . . why Utica?

What cared about Utica anyhow?

He must remember not to grin when Saunders talked about organization and duty and loyalty; he must make believe that falling to go to Utica was the worst thing which had happened to any one between the Battery and the Bronx in seven years.

As John Andrew stopped a cab, and climbed inside, he decided, as he had many times before, that it was rather a foolish notion of his father to have wanted that he be "steadily employed until reaching the age of twenty-five where he is not known as my son," or dire things would happen. Just what those were he did not know, and Craig undoubtedly tried to frighten him with what would turn out to be a bogey man. Lawyers were that way. Secrecy about nothing. Full of dust and mumbo-jumbo. Andrew Kellogg Sr. would have been the man to leave his money to other than his own—which was John Andrew.

While his father had been living, the younger Kellogg had always had his out of things which the older man smiled at; why, then, impose conditions? Such as . . . Utica? Not that John Andrew minded working, but there were so many other things to do, the men he knew all had time to do them in. So, far as that went, did Barbara, although she was always leaving him . . .

It had been Barbara, despite her constant advice, who had made him stay in New York when he should have gone upstate last month, although, fairly, he should have been persuaded to go.

He began to grin as he thought of relating the Jennings performance; he seemed himself as the cab stopped abruptly, and lit a cigarette, wishing that he had named at the hotel for coffee and rolls; of course he wouldn't mention the fellow's name, even if Jennings had turned out to be a pup. "There I went with the nickel in my hand," he'd say, possibly to some of the men at the corner, "and if that nickel hadn't given me action, I'd been out in the street, with the kids wondering how I got loose from a bathing beauty parade. . ."

Telling about Anne wouldn't help the story any; he felt that some one should promptly say, "Well, did you date her?" and then he'd get angry. He knew that he would, although he saw no reason why he should. He said aloud, "I'm the simple minded Kellogg."

As he stepped from the cab on lower Broadway, he decided that the landlady was too festive for business, and dropped it to the street. It fell like a puff of oil, and John Andrew looked at it a moment, glumly. Then, the landlady, he marched into the building.

A half hour later, when he was in the street again, it was no trouble at all to look sober. John Andrew's face was pale, although his ears were still tinged with color; Utica, he had discovered, was even more important than he had imagined Saunders would think it. John Andrew didn't have any about all.

What he did next brought a messenger boy, a broker, several bond agents, two insurance adjusters, a junior accountant and a corporation lawyer to watch him. He bent over the curb, found three crushed corn-cobs broken with oil, wiped them with his handkerchief, and then rearranged them in his buttonhole, apparently unaware of his swiftly forming comedy.

One of the interested witnesses said to another, "Cornflowers. They're the emblem of the Kaiser. National flower. Fellow has probably been cuckoo ever since the war. Doesn't look like a German, does he?"

John Andrew said clearly, "I'm Scotch."

Some one tuttered. John Andrew grinned as he walked rapidly up Broadway.

It had been David Craig, twenty years earlier, who took John Andrew from the train in New York, examined him carefully, and then told the boy to go to the office. Craig had said that his face needed washing. "The boy was thinking—'You're a brave laddie to come so far by yourself!'"—the boy would have clung to his hand, instead of perceiving it to be held in the great hand of the man.

John Andrew had indeed come a long way.

John rocking down the Kauro river had wakened him, a month before; he, unexpecting, sat beside the quilts on which the boy had slept. Andrew had been carried by Kellogg himself to a sampan, where a bare-chested boatman sculled them through the confused border of fishing craft and midstream, there to wait for the steamer.

While they waited, in some low roofed concealed temple a Shinto priest's human to chant loudly, almost fiercely; it sounded fanatical and defiant. John immediately believing it seemed to affect the older Kellogg, for he turned his arm about the thin little body of John Andrew.

Good morning!

There's nothing startling about this picture, but it's entertaining, expertly presented, and as clean as a whistle. To its blithe young star, "Buddy" Rogers, it gives another one of those roles that make his audiences at large yearn to rush up, pat him on his curly head, and cry "ATTABOY!"

There's something wholesomely refreshing about this Kansas lad—made the boy is clever! Make no mistake about that.

As the hero of this yarn he gets "half way to heaven" on a trapeze. It may be said without telling you too much of the story that he nearly goes the whole way. Because, you see, another member of the acrobatic troupe he has joined loves madly and is insanely jealous of Buddy's girl. This dangerous gentleman, most skillfully portrayed by Paul Lukas, is not to be trifled with. He has got rid of Buddy's predecessor by the simple means of dropping him during the act. The troupe doesn't use a net. There is no proof, however, that murder has been committed, for there is there to say with certainty that the victim was not killed through his own lack of experience?

The persistent attentions of Nick greatly irritate Greta, and she runs away from the company. She seeks shelter in a small country town and thus meets Ned Lee (Buddy), an amateur acrobat, who is leaving in a couple of days to join Greta's troupe at a nearby county fair. He is to take the place of the boy who has been killed. This the girl doesn't know until Ned has gone. She dashes back to work—and a whole lot happens!

"Half Way to Heaven" is full of action and has considerable suspense. It hands you several laughs, a good, round fight, young love, and some inside information on the life and habits of the risks taken by the traveling acrobat.

The cast supporting Mr. Rogers is excellent and the piece is being warmly received at the Chicago.

"TANNED LEGS." (TALKIES)

Produced by BKO.
Directed by Marshall Nollan.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST:

Travis . . . Ann Pennington
Bill . . . Arthur Lake
Peggy . . . Sally Kane
Jane . . . Dorothy Revier
Conscience . . . Edmund Burke

KIND: Screen musical comedy.
QUALITY: Fair.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Good.
ACTING: Arthur Lake is splendid. Others in the cast get by, but arouse no particular enthusiasm.

DIRECTION: Would have been better if belated.

STORY: The action takes place at a fashionable pleasure resort where regular musical comedy events occur. There's a giddy, fat papa, a philanderer, middle aged mamma; two daughters of the pair, one of whom is engaged in an affair with a blackmailer; the blackmailer, his lady friend, etc. Rehearsals for a charity show offer opportunity for the introduction of songs and dances.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much. Remarks: The film's too long. It's too much like many others. There's no kick to be found with the title, for legs aren't tanned at a beach resort, they ought to be.

Baptists Planning Single Campaign for Raising 1930 Budget

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago Baptists plan to unite in a city-wide campaign to raise at a single stroke all funds needed by all congregations for the coming year. The plan was proposed to 400 representatives of all the churches in the Chicago area yesterday. They met at the Stevens hotel, and heard the plan of Dr. W. H. Bowler of New York, executive secretary of the Northern Baptist convention. Unanimous endorsement was given to the plan by the representatives.

It is planned that congregational and missionary budgets of the entire communion eventually will be raised by simultaneous action throughout the entire church. According to Dr. Bowler, this means that each congregation will feel the weight of church-wide cooperation behind its efforts in the intensive drive.

The speaker stated that in Protestant churches less than 50 per cent of the congregations carry more than half of the financial burden. The Baptist budget for 1930 is to be about $5,000,000, with Chicago Baptists responsible for more than $200,000.

Striking textile workers in North Carolina are battling for three principles of the social and industrial creed of the Methodist Episcopal church, according to a resolution adopted yesterday at the Methodist preachers' meeting. The resolution was proposed by the Rev. Carl D. Gage of the Edison Park Methodist Episcopal church and ordered that a copy of the Methodist social creed be sent to the strikers "as an expression of sympathy and interest." The three principles set forth by the creed are recognition of the union, reasonable hours, and a living wage.

Church Scope Unlimited.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—"Step arguing about the church and begin praying for it," was the advice of the Most Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, bishop of Chicago and primate of the American Episcopal church. He spoke at the Academy of Music here tonight at a meeting in his honor. Bishop Anderson declared:

"The primary purpose of the church is to penetrate society so that society shall be Christian in its structure and principles; to reach out into the world of business and commerce; to establish the golden rule and to try to bring it about that business ethics and Christian ethics shall not be divorced from each other; to reach out even into the world of politics which has always been so remote and inaccessible."

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question: George Schube, 6615 Ellis avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should the custom of telling children nursery rhymes and fairy tales be abandoned?

The Answers.

Miss Nettie Zuckerman, 2125 Pierce avenue, public school teacher—No. Stories of this character appeal to children's imaginations. Children live in an imaginative world anyhow. They know a little about the every day world about them, and it is not necessary that they will always trust you. Children cannot tell the difference between what is true and not true; it is difficult for adults to keep this straight. I remember that I mistrusted those who did not always tell me the truth.

Miss Elsie Koffman, 2034 Farragut avenue, stenographer—Children should have fairy stories. I loved them when I was a child; every child loves them and needs them. Later in life we find these fairy romances in books and novels, in the drama, and in movie shows.

Maurice Alschuler, 7 South Dearborn street, lawyer—The telling of fairy stories should be continued; they do not belong to this age. They have a bad psychological effect on children's minds. When the children realize the tales are fictitious they lose confidence in their elders.

Miss May McDonald, 300 Washington boulevard, public school teacher—I believe it is not harmful to the child, and I know there is a great deal of joy in it for them. Children of that age live in fairyland, and there is nothing gained by trying to impress practical things upon them.

Women Plan Beauty Course for Chicago

Hope to Delight Visitors to World's Fair.

Chicago will have an army of women equipped to begin the actual cleaning up of the city, with special care toward its more beautiful qualities. So Mrs. William Westerlund, president of the Chicago Beautiful association, declared yesterday. She spoke at a membership meeting in the Chicago Historical society.

When the World's Fair visitors arrive they will find this city with a better system of street marking, with vacant lots beautified or utilized, condemned buildings removed, homes with landscaped lawns, the smoke ordinance enforced. So it was predicted by Mrs. Westerlund and the committee heads, who spoke to a group of 250 women, most of them presidents of women's clubs in Cook county.

Charles B. Pike, president of the Chicago Historical society, urged the association to seek the cooperation of manufacturing interests, and railroad chiefs in making the city more attractive.

"The railroads are the portals of Chicago and could be made more pleasant to the eye with landscaping," Mr. Pike said. "Over most of the railroads entering Chicago visitors gain the wrong idea of the town by seeing only the worst looking districts. Many factoring plants could be beautified with landscaped grounds and the new buildings could be erected in more pleasing architecture."

Among other speakers were Mrs. Charles King Corant, social chairman; Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, Mrs. John W. Lear, Mrs. Robert L. McCall, Mrs. Charles J. Trainor, Caroline McVane, Myrtle S. Carpenter, and Mrs. Minna Schmidt.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A play, "The Goose Hangs High," will be given by Chicago Normal college students in the college auditorium next Friday evening. An item in the Sunday Metropolitan section erroneously stated that the production was to be given by Parker Senior High school students.

This is a work dating back to the time when works bearing the label, grand opera, really meant it. It was when scores were written less for the translation into music emotion than for magnificent voices, when an aria meant to stand still and sing for all one was worth, without any frivolous side issues of acting—all that came in the recitatives—when all the fine voices of the cast had arias and then were combined into concerted numbers, with the chorus booming behind them. And the success of such a piece today depends on how many fine voices can be assembled and how well their owners understand the older traditions.

Such is "The Jewess," "La Juive," or "L'Ebreu," depending upon what you want to call it. Originally it was the second title being sung in Italian last night it might claim the third. But the first was on the program.

As a matter of fact it bears its years lightly. Most of the tunes are good, few have dated noticeably, and when Miss Raisa, Mr. Marshall, and Mr. Kip

Chicago Galleries Show Is Proof of Resident Talent

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The eighth semi-annual exhibition by the artist members of the Chicago Galleries association is current in their galleries at 230 North Michigan avenue and it is one of the most successful exhibitions this organization ever has offered.

It is a brilliant exhibit from every angle and it reflects a marvelous amount of glory upon Chicago as an art center. The majority of the artists are Chicagoans; those who are not Chicagoans are from the middle west and west. For once the east is not called upon to provide us with entertainment.

Our men go east with their canvases and New York paintings are brought here [usually to the fanfare of trumpets], and both ways of distributing opportunity to the public for seeing what is being done in art today are good, but we have too little recognition shown here to our men and women who abroad are treated with honor. The Chicago Galleries association rights this wrong in a magnificent manner.

In the current exhibition there is a decorative canvas by Jessie Arms Botke, "The Insult." Stark Davis gives another bird painting, a superb bit of color and technique. "Decorative—Roulette." Two winter scenes are most appropriate. Frank A. Dudley's "A Song of Winter" is a gorgeous snowy landscape, and Carl Kraft submits "Holiday" with Christmas painting overhanging with Christmas jollity.

Charles P. Killgore is represented by "California" and "The Way to the Mountain," two large canvases skillfully painted and rich in haunting beauty typical of his treatment of distance and height. Anna Lynch shows two decorative flower pieces, and Gerald Frank gives us a fantasy, "Nowhere," and a stunning still life, "The Blue Bowl."

Possibly the most human and tenderly beautiful painting in the galleries is Roy Collins' "Mother and Child." Across from it Paul Trebilcock's "Portrait of Mrs. Guilford and Judith" breathes respectability in every inch, though the details aside from the figures and faces are exquisitely wrought. His sitters suffer from superlative care.

Among the other painters who make this show the fine one it is John A. Spelman, Pauline Palmer, Carl C. Froudel, Davenport Griffin, Othmar Hoffer, John T. Noff, Lucie Hartshorn, Gerald Cassidy, Claude Buck, Francis Chapin, Joseph Birren, Marquis E. Rittell, John P. Stacey, Frederic Tollerand, and Adolph Heintz.

The exhibition will continue through Dec. 31.

Thrills with Safety Problem of Showmen at Amusement Parks

How to give the public one breath taking thrill after another without breaking any necks is the problem before 1,100 exhibitors and members of the National Association of Amusement Parks, which opens its eleventh annual convention today at the Stevens hotel. The meeting will conclude Friday.

The customers who patronize the 250 or more amusement parks are organization represents want more and faster rides," commented A. R. Hodge of Riverview park, Chicago, secretary of the association. "They want speed and they want safety. We give them both. But they've changed their minds in the last ten years and we have to change with them. Refreshments—the hot dogs, pink lemonade, and candy stands—will be ever with us, like the loop, the loop and the 'swing-en-around,' but a good many of the old time attractions are obsolete. Nobody wants to see movies now and few will listen to the ballyhoo 'artists.' So we don't have them any more. Trick rides, particularly the ones that suggest the thrills of aviation, are the attractions we stress."

Thursday afternoon President Rufus C. Dawes of the world's fair committee will talk to the convention on the proposed fair amusements. During the four days of the meeting an entire floor of exhibited attractions will be on display at the hotel.

Banquet for Principal.
William J. Barthol, principal of the Crane Technical High school since 1910, will be guest of honor at a banquet to be given next Wednesday evening at the Auditorium hotel under the auspices of the graduating class of the school. Mr. Barthol will receive P. B. I. at the age of 70. Students, faculty members, and other school officials will be among the guests.

Chanel Offers Caped Tweed with Muff

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK. — (Special Correspondence.)—It is a fit full season and this ultra smart coat from Chanel offers but one more testimony to the fact. Made of the fashionable black and white tweed, the corse encases smoothly the figure and the skirt shows that moderate flare which is so much better style than the extremely exuberant one.

Like so many coats in our best society, this one is finished by a circular shoulder cape which fits the shoulders snugly and which is developed in the same bands marking the corse. And, like so many coats, it is accompanied by a little mellow shaped muff. This is of course in the same black Persian lamb supplying the choker collar and the narrow cuffs on the sleeves.

Here is a coat pledged to neither street nor sports wear. It will serve both occasions. And the same may be said of a number of this season's models. More formal in character are the numerous broadcloth, velvet, and velours models set off with fox in some harmonizing tone. Among these latter one must mention as of prime importance the Paquin coat of either broadcloth or velvet which, occurring in black and brown, in beige and in a delicate chilla tint, is being brought back to New York's winter season by many discriminating sojourners in Paris.

Now what is the distinguishing feature of this coat? It is the development of the fox trimming—always in a tone to harmonize with the color of the cloth. Bands of this fox are brought down the front in a curving line to be tucked under the hem in the back. A perfectly square appearance is given this back by the tuck in treatment and huge fur collar does the rest.

Possibly the most human and tenderly beautiful painting in the galleries is Roy Collins' "Mother and Child." Across from it Paul Trebilcock's "Portrait of Mrs. Guilford and Judith" breathes respectability in every inch, though the details aside from the figures and faces are exquisitely wrought. His sitters suffer from superlative care.

Among the other painters who make this show the fine one it is John A. Spelman, Pauline Palmer, Carl C. Froudel, Davenport Griffin, Othmar Hoffer, John T. Noff, Lucie Hartshorn, Gerald Cassidy, Claude Buck, Francis Chapin, Joseph Birren, Marquis E. Rittell, John P. Stacey, Frederic Tollerand, and Adolph Heintz.

The exhibition will continue through Dec. 31.

How to give the public one breath taking thrill after another without breaking any necks is the problem before 1,100 exhibitors and members of the National Association of Amusement Parks, which opens its eleventh annual convention today at the Stevens hotel. The meeting will conclude Friday.

The customers who patronize the 250 or more amusement parks are organization represents want more and faster rides," commented A. R. Hodge of Riverview park, Chicago, secretary of the association. "They want speed and they want safety. We give them both. But they've changed their minds in the last ten years and we have to change with them. Refreshments—the hot dogs, pink lemonade, and candy stands—will be ever with us, like the loop, the loop and the 'swing-en-around,' but a good many of the old time attractions are obsolete. Nobody wants to see movies now and few will listen to the ballyhoo 'artists.' So we don't have them any more. Trick rides, particularly the ones that suggest the thrills of aviation, are the attractions we stress."

Thursday afternoon President Rufus C. Dawes of the world's fair committee will talk to the convention on the proposed fair amusements. During the four days of the meeting an entire floor of exhibited attractions will be on display at the hotel.

Banquet for Principal.
William J. Barthol, principal of the Crane Technical High school since 1910, will be guest of honor at a banquet to be given next Wednesday evening at the Auditorium hotel under the auspices of the graduating class of the school. Mr. Barthol will receive P. B. I. at the age of 70. Students, faculty members, and other school officials will be among the guests.

Half the Fun of Christmas Is in Saving for It

BY MRS. GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A small collection of Christmas cards will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of 14 cents in stamps, which covers cost and postage. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune.

They do catch you unawares sometimes, don't they? And when they do you're not always proud of the way you acquit yourself, are you? I got caught the other day without a ready answer and had to do the best I could. I had just been treated to car fare and an evening paper from the pocket money of a young relative, for which, of course, I said, "Thank you very much."

"You don't really need to thank me," he said. "It's really your money."

We had just been discussing the Christmas presents he was going to buy with his savings from his allowance, and altogether it seemed to me that this was just the time to set him straight on the matter. Thinking as carefully as possible, I said: "No, it isn't really your money at all. It's your own. I gave it to you for spending money and it's as much yours as if you had earned it. As a matter of fact, you could just as well earn some money, but I don't want you to—I'd rather have you playing ball or something like that. The money we have is family money and you're entitled to a share of it. It's yours to do as you like with, without wanting it. If you want to go without something to buy me a paper and car fare, I call that a real treat—or if you go without lots of other things so you can save for Christmas for weeks and weeks, it's very much your money that you're spending. You have earned it in a way by denying yourself so many things you really want. Well, I think he was satisfied, and I can't help feeling that he felt a certain dignity about that money that he'd never felt before.

Now, you may or may not believe in an allowance for your children—but are you giving them a chance to save some money for Christmas gifts? There's such a difference between a child's feeling when he spends money that he's saved and when he

Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford Reach Shanghai; He Talks

(Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 9.—Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, and their party with seventy-five pieces of baggage, arrived from Hongkong this morning and received an enthusiastic welcome with no evidence of a social boycott which had been urged as a reprisal against the Chinese scene in the film, "The Thief of Bagdad."

The film actor said in an interview: "They tell me there was talk among the Chinese hereabouts of my having pulled the hair of a Mongolian in my picture, 'The Thief of Bagdad.' How can the Chinese be interested in the Mongolian, anyhow? Besides, I have had duels with countless Frenchmen in my pictures and France has not called for a firing squad."

Even now is not too late to begin to lead them into saving for Christmas. An engaging looking little bank or a small gray box with a slit in it crystallizing the idea, and when dimes or pennies or a temporary allowance come their way you'll be surprised to see that the rest does itself.

Junior League's Theater Parley Starting Today

BY THALIA

The Junior League is all keyed up for the start today of its theater parley, to which 150 delegates are coming from out of town. The young women have made the arrangements so well that the various features of the program should go off without a hitch.

Today's events include a performance of "The Patchwork Girl of Oz" at 7:30, after the delegates have gathered at the Junior league office at 1000 N. Dearborn. The program should go off without a hitch.

The speakers will include Mrs. Bruce Borland, who will read two Milwaukee delegates; Miss Dorothy Drake, who will have two from Montreal, Canada; Miss Edith Winkler, who will have two from Indianapolis; and one from St. Paul; Mrs. John R. Waterhouse Jr., who will entertain the National league president, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Rembrandt Smith Jr. of New York City; Miss Joseph Johnston, Miss Jeanette Peterson, Mrs. Louis Sudler, and Miss Dorothy Wegener.

Mrs. Frank Hodgkins and her father, Mr. F. Carr, will between them have a group of eight visitors, the five delegates to be put up at Mr. Carr's apartment at 209 Lake drive, and Mrs. Hodgkins to be three from Minneapolis with her own apartment at 1435 Lake drive.

Stephen Y. Hordis of Lake Forest had a large dinner party on Sunday at his home, with the place de resistance was wild turkey and buffalo meat from New Mexico.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers will give luncheon today at her residence for Mrs. Randall Morgan of Philadelphia, who arrived yesterday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers for week.

Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson will give dinner for Mrs. Morgan this evening, later taking her guests to the city. Other affairs to be given for Mrs. Morgan include a luncheon tomorrow at which Mrs. Edward P. will be hostess, and a dinner and opera party tomorrow evening by Mrs. Chalmers.

The annual charity dance of the Junior league will be held at 8:30 at the Shawnee Country club in Wilmette. Mrs. William Stahl is general chairman of the committee in charge and is being assisted by Mrs. Alfred H. Taylor, Mrs. Harry Blakney, Mrs. John Carter Jr., Mrs. Francis Hoffman, Mrs. William Parkes, and Mrs. Donald W. Rogers. Mrs. Louis Tilden is president.

Mrs. John G. Christ will give a luncheon at the Lake Shore drive hotel on Monday.

The Association of Arts and Industries is to hold a dinner on Friday at the Palmer house. Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Pelouse, and Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouse have made reservations, and the Art Institute, the South Side Art association, and the Women Interior Decorators' association have taken tables for the dinner. The speakers are to be Edmond Humes, principal of the Pennsylvania Museum School of Industrial Arts; Walter Kantack, and William Jean Beaulieu.

Mrs. Charles Webster Shippey and Mrs. Eugene Schobinger have issued invitations for a luncheon and bridge party at the Blackstone on Dec. 17 for Mrs. Webster Shippey, who was married in September to Mrs. Shippey's son.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hubbard Norton are to give a musical on Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, at the home for their daughter, Miss Beatrice Norton.

The Chicago Smith College club is to have a luncheon on Dec. 20 in the lounge room of the Palmer house. Mr. Robert Morrison is in charge of the arrangements.

Hungarian Quartet Plays Concert for Women's Musical Club

The Lemer string quartet of Budapest made its first visit to Chicago yesterday afternoon, playing a concert in the Playhouse under the auspices of the Musicians' Club of Women.

The organization takes about as high a rating as any of the present day in Europe, and deserves to. It plays with a vivid tone, which even when spun down to its finest thread, a marked and often repeated feature of its playing, never loses its carrying quality. No instrument of the four ever gets out of balance with any of the others. In fact, their ensemble is something in which they can take justifiable pride, and when it is added that their interpretation generally takes on a personal tinge, there are reasons for their playing becoming decidedly interesting.

Three numbers were on their program. The first was the so-called Hunt quartet in B flat by Mozart; the second was Debussy's essay in this form in G minor; and the final was Schubert's posthumous quartet, which contains the variations on "Death and the Maiden."

Illinois Nurses Meet Tonight to Discuss Red Cross Activities

The first district Illinois State Nurses' association will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the Chicago Woman's club. The program will be turned over to the Chicago committee on Red Cross nursing service.

More than 40,000 registered nurses in the United States are on immediate call in case of disaster, great epidemic or war, and in Chicago alone 1,300 registered nurses are ready for such an emergency, according to Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, who is chairman of the program. Boy Scouts will act as ushers.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Helen Lenore Hudson, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Theodore Hudson of Duluth, Minn., to John Y. Meloy Jr., son of Mrs. John Young Meloy of 1210 Astor street, took place on Nov. 26 at All Saints' Episcopal church at Orange, N. J. Mr. Meloy and his bride are to reside at 1210 Astor street after Dec. 15.

Mrs. Frederic Bogart McMullen of 718 Noyes street, Evanston, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Lois McMullen, to Dudley Pitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pitts, also of Evanston, which took place on Sunday at St. Mark's church in Evanston. Miss McMullen is a graduate of Smith college.

MRS. H. J. LERTY

2328 E. 71st St., Chicago, says:

"My secret of washing colorful underthings doubles their life"

[Local woman tells how she keeps wardrobe fresh]

"I KNOW that some married women get careless about the little personal things, but I think it pays to keep my wardrobe as fresh and charming as it was on my honeymoon," she writes.

"To do this, I have to wash my things often and at the same time be sure that the colors don't fade.

So Easy
"With Lux, this is easy. After each wearing, my underwear and stockings go into Lux suds, yet Lux is so gentle, so safe, that they stay bright and new looking ever so long.

"I believe I make my washable things last twice as long as do some of my friends who still use ordinary soap chips or powders, or worst of all, rub with cake soap.

"Lux for everything I wash, from chignon stockings to big, fluffy blankets—that's my rule! Dishes, too, of course, to keep my hands from getting red and rough."

"See all I did with just one package of Lux"

Mrs. H. W. Watts, of Watervliet, writes: "I'm astonished to find how much I can wash with one large box of Lux. I've kept careful count especially of the baby's things—and here's the list:

- | | |
|--------------------|---------------------|
| 10 dresses | 8 pairs socks |
| 54 diapers | 5 nightgowns |
| 12 shirts | 1 rayon bedspread |

| 8 slips | 1 silk kimono |
| 1 blouse | 1 wool sweater |
| 9 silk lingerie | 1 lamp shade |
| 10 pairs stockings | 1 upholstered chair |

"And besides I always use Lux for dishes so this package has done 10 days' dishes and all the baby's bottles, as well."

Doris Urges Young Wife to Stick by Her Marriage Vows

BY DORIS BLAKE

Twenty-two and married five years. There is a baby one and a half years old. Besides the husband—there is another man, Violet, the girl wife, is trying to make a go of it. Husband is aware of the passion; has known about it from the start and he has been very good about it all.

"I suppose he thought I'd forget," Violet tells. "On account of the baby I don't want to hurt my husband by a divorce. We both love the baby dearly. But I shall never be happy until we may true love and I am to get."

All right. How dear do you love the baby? Until you can honestly say that you put its happiness before your own you can't say you love it dearly!

Of course, you are young. You married very young. And I suppose now you think life has cheated you, in consequence it is the usual scene of disappointed young souls. And we elders have not any right to expect world experience to guide you. You have not had time for it yet.

Nevertheless you are at a terribly crucial point in your life. The step you take now is going to change the course of your life for better or worse. Not your life alone will be affected—but the lives of three persons beside yourself. Yes, we are including the outsider. For there is no telling the influence for good that you can still be in this man's life, even though you may renounce him. It's hard for any one to escape a moral tainting up if he is close to a fine renouncer, even though he may be playing the role of tempter.

But let us suppose you did decide on divorce and marry with the outsider. Two years from now or three you'd be settled down again in another domestic groove. You would have got what you wanted—but what? Even the most passionate idyll must resolve eventually into a thing of prose and usual domestic rounds, hills and wash days, cleaning days, and milk bottles. You can't escape the prose of living.

Suppose, on the other hand, you stick where you are! Well, there's always the cheering thought in your darkest moments that you are playing the game as squarely as you know how. Of course, you'll have discouraged hours. Don't say "Why never step you take you'll have them—but if you've put the happiness of others ahead of your own, life in the long run will guarantee you more shining hours than you can get the other way—no many many more, in fact, that there just isn't any question as to which is the step to take.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—Vice President Curtis and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cane, are entertaining for a few days Mrs. Webster Knight III, of Providence, who arrived this morning.

The former American ambassador to France and Mrs. Hugh Wallace, the latter formerly Miss Mildred Fuller, daughter of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller of Chicago, have returned from their summer visits abroad and are making their house ready for occupancy. They were joined at the Mayflower Saturday by Mrs. Wallace's sister, Mrs. Nathaniel L. Franklin, who has made her home in Paris for some years. She will spend the winter in Washington.

The bachelor's cotillion was the attraction tonight at the Mayflower for the dancers of Washington. It was the first one this season, with Walter Davidson leading, and Miss Miranda Froehlich, debutante daughter of the Austrian minister.

Copy of Quilt Made by Mrs. Coolidge Shown Here

A crocheted coverlet for the bed in which Abraham Lincoln died, made from materials given by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, was presented to C. B. Pike, president of the Chicago Historical society, yesterday by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, member of the society. Using the same crocheted book with which Mrs. Coolidge made a spread for Lincoln's bed in the White House during her husband's administration, Mrs. Coolidge reproduced that coverlet. It was sent to Mrs. Coolidge for final inspection before being given to the historical society. Accompanying the spread was a silhouette of Lincoln embroidered by Mrs. Coolidge on a spun by Sarah Brewer Coolidge, Mr. Coolidge's grandmother.

Look Lovely Tonight

Sallow, Dingsy Skin made Lovely—
—Coarse Pores become Fine—
—Stops oily skin, removes blackheads

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger.

And because it is so mild, it certainly is a blessing for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons.

Creamed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask your druggist for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight.

GUARANTEE

It's impossible for Denton's Facial Magnesia not to improve your complexion. But, should it fail to delight you, even after the very first application, your dealer is requested to refund your money at once without question.

DENTON'S CREAMED

Facial Magnesia

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Molding the dress about the figure with low placed skirt fullness is a new achievement, done to slenderize the figure. The dipping points of the skirt are graceful, while the curved line of the hips is emphasized by godets, creating a panel at the back, which is an added means of giving length. Black crepe satin, using both surfaces; black transparent velvet, with the velvet and crepe of an elegant marmite crepe, and Spanish red silk crepe with beige used as the contrasting color are smart combinations.

The pattern, 3029, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 34, 36, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 34 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with 1/4 yard of 39 inch contrasting for the knot and ends, and 1/4 yard of 32 inch contrasting, and 2 1/4 yards of 4 1/4 inch wide lace.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of each pattern as you want. Enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 247 Park Avenue, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Poultrymen are often confused in diagnosing troubles in their flocks. For instance, there is a type of cold that is more of a distinct disease, commonly known as bronchitis. This condition is acute and the birds die quickly. The cause of the disease is not known. The best treatment is to increase the temperature of the house, either by controlling the ventilation or by using brooder stoves. In the early part of the outbreak it is well to remove all sick birds and put them in heated houses. Some disinfectants will give relief, but quick remedies should not be used.

Chicken pox is often mistaken for a cold, but it is a specific disease. Unless care is taken colds may appear with the pox and many chickens will die. The mouth form of chicken pox is not ordinarily serious if the occurrence of colds can be prevented. The temperature of the pens should be raised, the birds given special care, and the litter changed often to keep moisture at a low level. The removal of diseased birds in the early stages will help, but when a number keep coming down it is best to let them remain with the flock.

When chicken pox appears in the flock it is best to isolate it to run its course. In some cases it may be advisable to vaccinate the birds, especially if the disease is found in food and if the flock is not laying heavily.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Cooking Cauliflower.

Recipes for cooking broccoli have appeared in this column, beginning in 1912. The method of cooking principally advocated has been the blanching of this vegetable for five minutes and the finishing with the gentlest heat and shortest cooking time possible. Cooked broccoli is to be dressed with plain butter or Hollandaise sauce for elegance.

Once upon a time most particular emphasis was given to cooking this vegetable in the shortest time. It was considered then mainly an Italian vegetable, while it is now an American, as far as usage is concerned; as I advised cooking it "precipitately," which means very precipitately and is supposed to be the longest word in the Italian language. That is the way to cook and serve broccoli. It should not stand around after it is cooked.

This vegetable was in use in America in 1845, and we have printed an English recipe for cooking broccoli that was a hundred years old. One of the old cooks says to strip off the little branches till you come to the top one, and then with a knife peel off the hard outside skin that is on the stalks. Finally, it says when these are cooked tender it is enough, and it has been my own idea that when they are cooked more tender it is more than enough.

Recently a most accomplished food person advocated the peeling of the stalks as this old cook did, but when they are fresh it does not seem necessary.

Years and years ago, after having had broccoli in several parts of Italy, I came home and, finding it in our Italian markets at a very small price, began to serve it when I entertained and found it amused young intelligentsia as "cauliflower without a college education."

Some of the agricultural writers speak of it as the parent of cauliflower, and we know youngsters sometimes have a better opportunity than their parents. Also, years and years ago, I never bought cauliflower unless its leaves were green and unwilted. I cooked these leaves with the stem peeled and cut into thin disks, just as I cook broccoli now.

One Day Early.

While at work one day I received a telephone call inviting me to dinner at the home of a new acquaintance. Being busy, I did not pay particular attention to the day that I was to go, assuming that it would be the evening.

I called at the house that evening. My hostess opened the door with a look of great surprise on her face. As I entered the house I noticed that the family had partially finished supper. I concluded that I must have been quite late and that they thought I was not coming.

Imagine my feelings when I found that, rather than being late, I was just one day early.
